Wild Demonstrations Erupt In New Orleans; Many Hurt

Clubbing Police, Fire Hoses Halt Mobs; 58 Seized

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Riotous demonstrations against school race mixing exploded again and again throughout downtown New Orleans Wednesday.

Screaming demonstrators grudgingly gave ground to clubbing police and arching fire hoses, but re-formed and hit another street.

Arrests mounted to 58 by mid-afternoon.

Many persons both white and Negro were hurt.

Scattered violence continued under a rain that broke up the big mobs at mid-afternoon. White youths stabbed a Negro boy near Charity Hospital in latest violence.

More than 1,000 demonstrators —most of them teen-agers failed to reach the school board offices in downtown New Orleans.

Three hundred teen-agers reformed after hoses and clubs drove them from the streets, and tried to charge into City Hall a few blocks away.

Mounted police and fire hoses shattered the wall of screaming and drenched youths.

Chanting segments turned to the narrow streets of the famed French Quarter. Some teen-agers seized a policeman and beat him.

Woman Sobs, Appeals To Police

As the fire hoses were turned on the crowd in front of the school board office, Muriel Schneider, mother of two, grabbed Police Supt. Joseph Giarrusso by the trouser leg and pleaded: "Chief, help us, not the U.S. government."

Tears rolled down her cheeks.

"We'll help you," said Giarrusso, "if you do it in an orderly manner, but we are not going to let you take over the city."

While the uproar echoed against the walls of downtown buildings, U.S. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., stood before an infuriated Louisiana Legislature in Baton Rouge and said: "I would be personally willing to impeach the entire Supreme Court if my vote would do it."

The senator virtually told the legislature it was on its own.

"The situation in Washington," he said, "is likely to get worse. We simply do not have the votes."

And, he suggested the legislature abandon public schools and turn to a segregated private school system.

Negro Girls Almost Forgotten

Almost forgotten in the tumultuous sequence of violence were the four Negro first-grade girls whose entry into white public elementary schools for the first time in more than 80 years began the see-saw of strength in the Deep South's largest city.

One of the four girls entered William Frantz School quietly for the third day with a silent crowd of under 100 persons watching. At McDonogh No. 19, three others marched into the school before a silent crowd of about the same size.

After the worst of the day's disorders apparently had subsided, eight Negroes attacked a white man and shot him.

White men beat up four Negroes.

A group of whites stoned a Negro truck driver, who threw bricks back. Police broke up the fight. No one was hurt.

During the height of the melee around the school board office, a Negro delivery boy ran afoul of the demonstrators. Some threw him to the sidewalk, piled on him, hit him and kicked him. A policeman received a bloody nose rescuing the Negro.

Daly Resigns His ABC Post In Policy Row

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran broadcaster John Daly resigned Wednesday as vice president in charge of the American Broadcasting Co.'s News and Public Affairs Department.

The resignation was promptly accepted by ABC, setting off strong broadcasting industry rumors that Daly's successor would be James C. Hagerty, press secretary to President Eisenhower.

Officially, ABC would make no comment on the report that Hagerty would take over Daly's post after his White House duties with the outgoing Eisenhower administration end.

And the network temporarily designated Thomas Velotta, vice president in charge of special affairs for the ABC News and Public Affairs Department, to take over immediate administration of the department directed since 1953 by Daly.

Daly's yearly income from all of his broadcasting activities has been estimated in industry circles at about $250,000. These same sources estimated his job as ABC vice president earned him around $50,000 annually.

Daly said he was quitting ABC because of a "fundamental difference on policy" with ABC President Leonard Goldenson.

Daly submitted his resignation to be effective in one month.

Daly's role as moderator of the Columbia Broadcasting System's "What's My Line" television show will not be affected by his ABC resignation.

Doctor Escapes From Kidnapers

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — A Steubenville, Ohio, physician was kidnaped by two men Wednesday from a hospital parking lot in the Ohio city but fought off his abductors in a wooded section near Imperial, Pa., and escaped.

Dr. Ralph M. Rae, 39, told Pennsylvania state police his captors used a gun to force him into their automobile on the parking lot of St. Johns' hospital in Steubenville about 9:30 A. M. EST. He said the two men told him they wanted him to treat a gunshot wound suffered by a third man.

About five hours after Raes' abduction, police arrested two men on U.S. 22 near Armaugh, Pa. They were brought to the state police barracks here where Dr. Rae identified them positively as his kidnapers.

State police identified the men as Peter Rizzo, 21, Yonkers, N.Y., and Anthony Pizzuto, 21, the Bronx N.Y. They were arraigned Wednesday night before U.S. Commissioner Alex McNaugher and held under $50,000 bond each for a hearing Nov. 23 on kidnap charges.

Test Of Two-Stage Pershing Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Army successfully fired both stages of its Pershing missile for the first time Wednesday, sending the rocket on a 160-mile trip down the Atlantic missile range.

The 34-foot rocket, which is being developed as a mobile field weapon, sped from its pad, pouring a stream of white smoke from its solid-fuel engines. The second stage ignited about 40 seconds after launch and propelled a dummy warhead to a preselected target area.

The Army announced all test objectives were achieved.

Transit Strike, Giant Traffic Snarls Hit L. A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bus and trolley mechanics struck Wednesday in defiance of a court order.

The heart of the nation's largest metropolitan area—already renowned for traffic jams—slipped into an advanced stage of creeping paralysis as a result.

Tieups reached unparalleled density in some areas and parking places were so scarce downtown that people were fighting over them.

Mediators met with both sides separately, but there were no indications of an early settlement. It was anybody's guess whether the strike would keep buses and streetcars off the streets for the approaching Christmas shopping season—which even in normal times produces traffic problems approaching chaos.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority, serving some 400,000 daily commuters in Los Angeles and three neighboring counties, sent its buses and streetcars back to the barns after 900 mechanics walked out at midnight.

The mechanics, represented by the Amalgamated Transportation Union, had been working without a contract 18 months.

Their picket lines were immediately honored by the transit authority's 2,700 drivers.

Result: Los Angeles County, which has more registered motor vehicles than 43 of the nation's 50 states, sent an even higher than usual percentage of its cars onto streets and freeways.

Police, who assigned whole new detachments to traffic duty, said the situation on the east side was the worst in their memory.

The transit authority is a public corporation but the State Supreme Court recently held that its employes have the right to strike. Last month, however, Superior Court Judge Lloyd S. Nix, at the request of the authority, issued a temporary restraining order postponing a strike scheduled by the mechanics. Tuesday he extended the order.

Churchill Falls, Suffers Broken Bone In His Back

LONDON (AP) —Sir Winston Churchill lay prostrate and in pain Wednesday night with a broken bone in his back.

From the 85-year-old statesman's sickroom came reassuring news, but the nation remained anxious.

"There is no cause for anxiety," said Anthony Montague-Browne, Churchill's secretary.

He added that Churchill will have to stay in bed "for a little time."

Churchill stumbled and fell as he came home Tuesday midnight from an engagement.

Wednesday morning his back hurt. At his wife's insistence he was taken quietly in an ambulance through London's busy streets to a specialist for X-raying.

It shows a small bone in his back was fractured. The old man was ordered to bed.

Churchill took it all in fine spirit. Despite the discomfort he was experiencing, the household reported he was quite cheerful.

Churchill was in a bedroom in the handsome two-story house at 28 Hyde Park Gate, his London home.

His wife Clementine—"Clemmie," he calls her—was with him. Outside in the narrow street of elegant houses, near Princess Margaret's home at Kensington Palace, a small knot of people gathered.

Britons got their most recent look at Churchill only last week when he went to the annual reunion of his old school, Harrow, an event he rarely misses.

Normal Temperature Slated Next 30 Days

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted on Wednesday that normal temperatures will prevail over most of the United States during the next 30 days.

The monthly 30-day forecast also called for greater than normal amounts of snow or rain in the Great Lakes Region, Mississippi Valley and Pacific Northwest, below normal amounts over the Southwest Northern Plains and Middle Atlantic Coast, and near normal amounts elsewhere.

The exception to the normal or above normal temperature forecast was for the Southern Plateau, where temperatures are expected to be below seasonal normals.

Johnson Host To Kennedy At Tex. Ranch

Begin Conferences On Problems Facing New Administration

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy flew to Texas Wednesday to confer with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson on the massive problems facing their administration.

Kennedy was greeted by Gov. Price Daniel and U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough at Bergstrom Air Force Base, six miles from Austin. Kennedy immediately hopped into a small plane and flew to Johnson's ranch 65 miles west of Austin.

Kennedy broke into a Florida vacation to fly here by jet plane.

Some 35 newsmen and Kennedy's staffers got off the plane before the president-elect. When he appeared at the top of a white ramp, a group of youngsters whose parents live at the base gave him a true rebel yell. He quickly flashed his famous grin.

Public Barred

The public was barred from seeing the senator by Secret Service agents. But several hundred airmen and their families lined up behind a wire fence to welcome him. A light drizzle fell.

Rep. Torbert Macdonald, D-Mass., Kennedys' Harvard roommate, accompanied Kennedy from Palm Beach, Fla.

Four planes brought newsmen and photographers to the LBJ Ranch near here. All but three men returned to Bergstrom after a tour of the ranch. Three reporters will remain at the ranch in case of emergency.

Wednesday night and through Thursday, in the seclusion of a sprawling ranch house of stone and white frame, the two men were expected to try to chart not only a smooth changeover from a Republican to a Democratic regime but also a far-ranging legislative program to which they committed themselves during the campaign.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, said merely, "They obviously will have a lot of things to discuss."

First Meeting Since Campaign

The last time Kennedy and Johnson met was in the closing days of the campaign that resulted in their downing Republicans Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge by the closest popular vote in three-quarters of a century.

When Kennedy makes the move from the Senate to the White House Jan. 20, Johnson will give up the powerful role of Senate majority leader and take over the vice presidents' gavel from Nixon.

As a master of the legislative maneuver, Johnson undoubtedly could offer Kennedy some sage advice on the timing of items to be submitted to the new Congress. Proposals dealing with defense, agriculture, medical care for the aged, education and the state of the national economy were assigned high priority during the campaign.

Petition Urges Ike Free Sobell

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Morton Sobell said Wednesday she has a new petition with 600 signers urging President Eisenhower to free her husband, who has been imprisoned 10 years since his conviction in the Rosenberg spy plot.

At the same time, the "Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell" announced plans for a gathering here this weekend of people from all over the nation who are seeking Sobells' freedom.

Sobell, a radar expert, joined Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in denying guilt on the spy charges. All three were convicted. Sobell was sentenced to 30 years and the Rosenbergs were executed in June 1953.

Another defendant, Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from 8 to 30 years in prison, where he is now.

The key witness in the case was David Greenglass, brother of Mrs. Rosenberg, who pleaded guilty to helping steal U. S. atomic secrets which he said were passed on to the Russians. Sentenced to 15 years in prison in 1951, he was released Wednesday with time off for good behavior.

Absentee Vote Gives California To Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon captured California's 32 electoral votes Wednesday night on unofficial returns from a wave of more than 230,000 absentee ballots counted eight days after the polls closed.

Nixon led in California by 13,160 votes.

Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy still was president-elect, based on national electoral vote totals in the closest race in modern times.

Republican Nixon had the consolation of eking out victory in his home state after Kennedy had led narrowly from start to finish of the regular vote count.

Here were the latest unofficial California figures:

Absentees: Nixon 132,186; Kennedy 84,458.

Statewide resident and absentee: Nixon 3,219,211; Kennedy 3,206,051.

The remaining absentee votes—about 20,000—were mainly in the Republican strongholds of San Diego and Orange counties.

The official canvass, due by Nov. 28, will give the final score, but it appeared that only a gross error at the county clerk level in some major counties could upset Nixon's success in California.

Kennedy's election was not jeopardized by the California switch but his margin was reduced and Nixon's prestige in his home state was strengthened.

Los Angeles County, which had most of the remaining absentee votes, was giving Nixon a consistent edge of better than 63 per cent.

Discoverer XIII Satellite Burns

HANSCOM FIELD, Mass. (AP) —The Air Force National Space Surveillance Center reported Wednesday the satellite Discoverer XIII burned up in the earths' atmosphere Monday afternoon.

Estimates placed the burnup somewhere over the South Pacific about 3 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Decay of Discoverer XIII reduced the satellite population to 16.

Discoverer XIII's destruction occurred, the scientists said, during the end of the satellites' 1,498th revolution about the globe, or at the beginning of its 1,499th.

U.N. Showdown Near On Congo Seating Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The U. N. General Assembly Wednesday headed for a showdown on the seating of Congo President Joseph Kasavubu with the Western powers increasingly hopeful he would win.

A session of the 99-nation assembly appeared likely on Friday to consider the recommendation of its Credentials Committee that a delegation headed by Kasavubu be given the Congo's vacant seat.

Western diplomats expected that delegates among the Asian-African nations who oppose Kasavubu and favor deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba would try to block assembly action by moving for adjournment.

But these diplomats said chances for defeating the adjournment move and winning a seat for Kasavubu were increasing, due mainly to the good impression he had made here on African delegates in private talks.

Fulbert Youlou, president of the neighboring Congo Republic, Brazzaville, was flying to New York to help Kasavubu in his campaign.

Last Wednesday the assembly voted 48-30 with 18 abstentions to postpone Congo debate pending the outcome of efforts by a 15-member Asian - African conciliation mission to achieve an on-the-spot reconciliation among rival Congolese political factions.

Ghana, supported by Guinea, Nigeria and the entire Soviet bloc, asked for the postponement. The United States opposed it. But on the next day the United States succeeded in pushing through the nine-nation Credentials Committee a recommendation that Kasavubu be seated.

Greenglass, Appearing Terrified, Leaves Prison

NEW YORK (AP)—A short, meek man emerged Wednesday from 9½ years behind prison bars, to stand blinking in New York's wan autumn sunshine. He was David Greenglass, survivor of one of the blackest chapters in the nation's relations with the Soviet Union.

Greenglass was the field man for an atom spy ring headed by his brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, and his sister, Ethel Greenglass Rosenberg. They have been dead 7½ years—doomed to the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison by the testimony of this same man who went free Wednesday from the Federal House of Detention.

Greenglass was included in the official government pronouncement by U.S. Dist. Judge Irving R. Kaufman when he sentenced the Rosenbergs to death for espionage.

"By your betrayal, you undoubtedly have altered the course of history to the disadvantage of our country," he said.

But for all this history-shaking role, Greenglass appeared a terrified man when he was released from federal detention at 8:35 a.m. He was transferred here over the weekend from Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary, where he served a 15-year prison sentence, less time off for good behavior.

"Drop dead, you lousy Communist," shouted a member of a hostile crowd of onlookers, made up mostly of longshoremen and truckers who work in the area.

Moments earlier his lawyer, O. John Rogge, told newsmen: "Mr. Greenglass will have no statement to make"

U.S. Troops' Dependents Must Return

Seven Steps Taken To Safeguard Gold, Dollar Resources

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) —President Eisenhower Wednesday ordered a sweeping seven-point economy program aimed at saving a billion dollars a year in overseas spending.

As part of it, he ordered the gradual return beginning Jan. 1 of 284,000 overseas dependents of U.S. military forces around the world.

The White House estimated later that the emergency moves, approved after months of top-level study, would cut down by one billion dollars the amount of dollars spent abroad in 1961.

Half of this saving will come by slashing Defense Department spending, the White House said.

Buying of American instead of foreign goods for economic aid will trim another 300 million. Another $170 million is to be saved in cutting back operations of other agencies.

Eisenhower personally announced the moves at a special news conference at his vacation headquarters. He said the emergency steps were urgently needed to guard the nation's gold and dollar resources.

"A definite improvement in our balance of payments situation is mandatory not only to insure our economic well-being and military security here at home but also to insure that the United States can continue as a strong partner in the future growth and military strength of the free world," he said.

The President's most drastic move was to order dependents of servicemen abroad to come home at a rate of 15,000 monthly.

200,000 May Stay Abroad

A total of 200,000 will be allowed to remain abroad. At present there are about 484,000 military dependents scattered around the world.

The White House said that the President's far-reaching decisions had been made known Wednesday to President-elect John F. Kennedy's representatives.

In announcing the economy measures, Eisenhower stressed there was no present intention to reduce the combat strength of the some six divisions of American troops stationed in Europe.

"The last thing we want to do is diminish our combat strength until the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) countries . . find it possible to fill the gap," he said.

Eisenhower issued a series of special directives which ordered these other important moves:

1. The State Department must "place primary emphasis on financing goods and services of United States origin" in all economic and technical aid to other countries.

2. The Defense Department must cut "by a very substantial amount" all military buying planned abroad in 1961, both for American defense forces as well as those of allied nations.

3. Post exchanges operated overseas were ordered to stop buying foreign goods except with personal permission of the defense secretary.

Embassy Buying Cutback

4. Commissaries and stores operated by American embassies also were told to stop buying foreign goods for sale to American diplomats and their dependents.

5. All government agencies were

Jessup Elected To World Court

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Philip C. Jessup, law professor and former U.S. diplomat, was elected Wednesday to the International Court of Justice in The Hague.

The U.N. General Assembly and the Security Council, meeting separately, named him to a nine-year term beginning next Feb. 5.

He succeeds another American, Judge Green H. Hackworth, who is retiring from the court at 77.

Jessup, 63, a lanky, gray-haired, New Yorker, is Columbia University professor of international law. He was a U.S. roving ambassador, 1949-53, and a delegate to the U.N. General Assembly 1948-52, in the Truman administration.

He won the judgeship a day after Rep. John R. Pillion, R-N.Y., protested against his candidacy in telegrams to President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy. Pillion said Jessup's career "has consistently been one of appeasement, retreat and surrender to pro-Communist causes."

Johnson Host To Kennedy At Tex. Ranch

Begin Conferences On Problems Facing New Administration

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy flew to Texas Wednesday to confer with Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson on the massive problems facing their administration.

Kennedy was greeted by Gov. Price Daniel and U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough at Bergstrom Air Force Base, six miles from Austin. Kennedy immediately hopped into a small plane and flew to Johnson's ranch 65 miles west of Austin.

Kennedy broke into a Florida vacation to fly here by jet plane.

Some 35 newsmen and Kennedy's staffers got off the plane before the president-elect. When he appeared at the top of a white ramp, a group of youngsters whose parents live at the base gave him a true rebel yell. He quickly flashed his famous grin.

Public Barred

The public was barred from seeing the senator by Secret Service agents. But several hundred airmen and their families lined up behind a wire fence to welcome him. A light drizzle fell.

Rep. Torbert Macdonald, D-Mass., Kennedys' Harvard roommate, accompanied Kennedy from Palm Beach, Fla.

Four planes brought newsmen and photographers to the LBJ Ranch near here. All but three men returned to Bergstrom after a tour of the ranch. Three reporters will remain at the ranch in case of emergency.

Wednesday night and through Thursday, in the seclusion of a sprawling ranch house of stone and white frame, the two men were expected to try to chart not only a smooth changeover from a Republican to a Democratic regime but also a far-ranging legislative program to which they committed themselves during the campaign.

Kennedy's acting press secretary, Donald M. Wilson, said merely, "They obviously will have a lot of things to discuss."

First Meeting Since Campaign

The last time Kennedy and Johnson met was in the closing days of the campaign that resulted in their downing Republicans Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge by the closest popular vote in three-quarters of a century.

When Kennedy makes the move from the Senate to the White House Jan. 20, Johnson will give up the powerful role of Senate majority leader and take over the vice presidents' gavel from Nixon.

As a master of the legislative maneuver, Johnson undoubtedly could offer Kennedy some sage advice on the timing of items to be submitted to the new Congress. Proposals dealing with defense, agriculture, medical care for the aged, education and the state of the national economy were assigned high priority during the campaign.

Petition Urges Ike Free Sobell

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Morton Sobell said Wednesday she has a new petition with 600 signers urging President Eisenhower to free her husband, who has been imprisoned 10 years since his conviction in the Rosenberg spy plot.

At the same time, the "Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell" announced plans for a gathering here this weekend of people from all over the nation who are seeking Sobells' freedom.

Sobell, a radar expert, joined Julius and Ethel Rosenberg in denying guilt on the spy charges. All three were convicted. Sobell was sentenced to 30 years and the Rosenbergs were executed in June 1953.

Another defendant, Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from 8 to 30 years in prison, where he is now.

The key witness in the case was David Greenglass, brother of Mrs. Rosenberg, who pleaded guilty to helping steal U. S. atomic secrets which he said were passed on to the Russians. Sentenced to 15 years in prison in 1951, he was released Wednesday with time off for good behavior.

Absentee Vote Gives California To Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon captured California's 32 electoral votes Wednesday night on unofficial returns from a wave of more than 230,000 absentee ballots counted eight days after the polls closed.

Nixon led in California by 13,160 votes.

Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy still was president-elect, based on national electoral vote totals in the closest race in modern times.

Republican Nixon had the consolation of eking out victory in his home state after Kennedy had led narrowly from start to finish of the regular vote count.

Here were the latest unofficial California figures:

Absentees: Nixon 132,186; Kennedy 84,458.

Statewide resident and absentee: Nixon 3,219,211; Kennedy 3,206,051.

The remaining absentee votes—about 20,000—were mainly in the Republican strongholds of San Diego and Orange counties.

The official canvass, due by Nov. 28, will give the final score, but it appeared that only a gross error at the county clerk level in some major counties could upset Nixon's success in California.

Kennedy's election was not jeopardized by the California switch but his margin was reduced and Nixon's prestige in his home state was strengthened.

Los Angeles County, which had most of the remaining absentee votes, was giving Nixon a consistent edge of better than 63 per cent.

Discoverer XIII Satellite Burns

HANSCOM FIELD, Mass. (AP) —The Air Force National Space Surveillance Center reported Wednesday the satellite Discoverer XIII burned up in the earths' atmosphere Monday afternoon.

Estimates placed the burnup somewhere over the South Pacific about 3 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Decay of Discoverer XIII reduced the satellite population to 16.

Discoverer XIII's destruction occurred, the scientists said, during the end of the satellites' 1,498th revolution about the globe, or at the beginning of its 1,499th.

U.N. Showdown Near On Congo Seating Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The U. N. General Assembly Wednesday headed for a showdown on the seating of Congo President Joseph Kasavubu with the Western powers increasingly hopeful he would win.

A session of the 99-nation assembly appeared likely on Friday to consider the recommendation of its Credentials Committee that a delegation headed by Kasavubu be given the Congo's vacant seat.

Western diplomats expected that delegates among the Asian-African nations who oppose Kasavubu and favor deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba would try to block assembly action by moving for adjournment.

But these diplomats said chances for defeating the adjournment move and winning a seat for Kasavubu were increasing, due mainly to the good impression he had made here on African delegates in private talks.

Fulbert Youlou, president of the neighboring Congo Republic, Brazzaville, was flying to New York to help Kasavubu in his campaign.

Last Wednesday the assembly voted 48-30 with 18 abstentions to postpone Congo debate pending the outcome of efforts by a 15-member Asian - African conciliation mission to achieve an on-the-spot reconciliation among rival Congolese political factions.

Ghana, supported by Guinea, Nigeria and the entire Soviet bloc, asked for the postponement. The United States opposed it. But on the next day the United States succeeded in pushing through the nine-nation Credentials Committee a recommendation that Kasavubu be seated.

Greenglass, Appearing Terrified, Leaves Prison

NEW YORK (AP)—A short, meek man emerged Wednesday from 9½ years behind prison bars, to stand blinking in New York's wan autumn sunshine. He was David Greenglass, survivor of one of the blackest chapters in the nation's relations with the Soviet Union.

Greenglass was the field man for an atom spy ring headed by his brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, and his sister, Ethel Greenglass Rosenberg. They have been dead 7½ years—doomed to the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison by the testimony of this same man who went free Wednesday from the Federal House of Detention.

Greenglass was included in the official government pronouncement by U.S. Dist. Judge Irving R. Kaufman when he sentenced the Rosenbergs to death for espionage.

"By your betrayal, you undoubtedly have altered the course of history to the disadvantage of our country," he said.

But for all this history-shaking role, Greenglass appeared a terrified man when he was released from federal detention at 8:35 a.m. He was transferred here over the weekend from Lewisburg, Pa., Federal Penitentiary, where he served a 15-year prison sentence, less time off for good behavior.

"Drop dead, you lousy Communist," shouted a member of a hostile crowd of onlookers, made up mostly of longshoremen and truckers who work in the area.

Moments earlier his lawyer, O. John Rogge, told newsmen: "Mr. Greenglass will have no statement to make"

U.S. Troops' Dependents Must Return

Seven Steps Taken To Safeguard Gold, Dollar Resources

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) —President Eisenhower Wednesday ordered a sweeping seven-point economy program aimed at saving a billion dollars a year in overseas spending.

As part of it, he ordered the gradual return beginning Jan. 1 of 284,000 overseas dependents of U.S. military forces around the world.

The White House estimated later that the emergency moves, approved after months of top-level study, would cut down by one billion dollars the amount of dollars spent abroad in 1961.

Half of this saving will come by slashing Defense Department spending, the White House said.

Buying of American instead of foreign goods for economic aid will trim another 300 million. Another $170 million is to be saved in cutting back operations of other agencies.

Eisenhower personally announced the moves at a special news conference at his vacation headquarters. He said the emergency steps were urgently needed to guard the nation's gold and dollar resources.

"A definite improvement in our balance of payments situation is mandatory not only to insure our economic well-being and military security here at home but also to insure that the United States can continue as a strong partner in the future growth and military strength of the free world," he said.

The President's most drastic move was to order dependents of servicemen abroad to come home at a rate of 15,000 monthly.

200,000 May Stay Abroad

A total of 200,000 will be allowed to remain abroad. At present there are about 484,000 military dependents scattered around the world.

The White House said that the President's far-reaching decisions had been made known Wednesday to President-elect John F. Kennedy's representatives.

In announcing the economy measures, Eisenhower stressed there was no present intention to reduce the combat strength of the some six divisions of American troops stationed in Europe.

"The last thing we want to do is diminish our combat strength until the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) countries . . find it possible to fill the gap," he said.

Eisenhower issued a series of special directives which ordered these other important moves:

1. The State Department must "place primary emphasis on financing goods and services of United States origin" in all economic and technical aid to other countries.

2. The Defense Department must cut "by a very substantial amount" all military buying planned abroad in 1961, both for American defense forces as well as those of allied nations.

3. Post exchanges operated overseas were ordered to stop buying foreign goods except with personal permission of the defense secretary.

Embassy Buying Cutback

4. Commissaries and stores operated by American embassies also were told to stop buying foreign goods for sale to American diplomats and their dependents.

5. All government agencies were

Jessup Elected To World Court

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Philip C. Jessup, law professor and former U.S. diplomat, was elected Wednesday to the International Court of Justice in The Hague.

The U.N. General Assembly and the Security Council, meeting separately, named him to a nine-year term beginning next Feb. 5.

He succeeds another American, Judge Green H. Hackworth, who is retiring from the court at 77.

Jessup, 63, a lanky, gray-haired, New Yorker, is Columbia University professor of international law. He was a U.S. roving ambassador, 1949-53, and a delegate to the U.N. General Assembly 1948-52, in the Truman administration.

He won the judgeship a day after Rep. John R. Pillion, R-N.Y., protested against his candidacy in telegrams to President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy. Pillion said Jessup's career "has consistently been one of appeasement, retreat and surrender to pro-Communist causes."

Government Sees Economy Next Year At About 1960 Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government, issuing its first 1961 business forecast Wednesday, significantly based it on the assumption that the economy in the new year "will remain at about 1960 levels."

At the same time, the Federal Reserve Board announced that a slump in industrial production was halted in October. However, the board noted that the bellwether steel and auto industries were pointing downward in November.

The first 1961 outlook summary was issued by the Commerce Department and dealt with prospects for the construction industry. It had been awaited with some eagerness because of its revelation of current department thinking on the likely economic environment in the coming year.

With the economy in a slack period, and with some economists foreseeing a recession this winter, the forecast had its optimistic side.

For one thing, the department predicted that total construction outlays will increase about 4 per cent in 1961 to a record $57.3 billion. However, the report contained a hint that prospects for the first six months of the year aren't that rosy.

The department said it looks for 1.3 million private housing starts in 1961, compared with about 1,255,000 this year. However, it said this "assumes a strong recovery in the second half of 1961."

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve Board said industrial production was unchanged in October after dropping a bit in September. It cited a number of offsetting developments which held total output to 7 per cent above the 1957 average, but 3 per cent below the average for the first half of 1960.

At the same time the board said auto and steel production were declining this month. This suggested that the November production report, when issued, may show another drop.

The board said an increase in auto output last month offset cuts in assemblies of TV sets, radios and appliances. Iron and steel production was unchanged but output of some other metals was down.

There also were declines in construction materials, textiles, chemicals and business equipment. However, clothing production held steady and there were increases in assemblies of farm machinery and railroad equipment.

Nixon Picks Up 1,911 In Canvass Of Md. Counties

BALTIMORE (AP) — Official complete totals for Marylands' 23 counties show that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has picked up 1,911 votes on President-elect John F. Kennedy since election day.

The official canvass totals include the absentee ballot vote in the counties.

Nixons' total for the counties is 374,911 compared to Kennedy's 363,106, or an advantage of 11,805.

Unofficial totals on election day showed the vice president leading by 9,894 with 368,282 votes compared to Kennedys' 358,388.

The official canvass has not been completed in Baltimore City, where Kennedy has built up a lead of 88,000 votes as he won the states' nine electoral votes.

Kennedy, unofficially, still maintains a 76,472 vote lead in Maryland. That total includes an unofficial, incomplete figure for Baltimore City.

In gaining the 1,911 vote advantage over Kennedy since election day, Nixon didnt' pick up a large advantage in any one county.

His biggest gain was Montgomery County where he increased his total by 519 more than Kennedy. In most counties, Nixons' advantage-gain was less than 100.

Nixon picked up more votes than Kennedy in 17 counties, Kennedy outpolled his opponent in four counties, Kent County's figures didnt' change and both lost votes in Carolines' canvass.

In Marylands'' four suburban counties, Nixon picked up a 1,056 vote gain over Kennedy. In addition to Montgomerys' 519, he also added 166 in Anne Arundel and 401 in Baltimore County. But Kennedy had the edge by 40 votes in Prince Georges County.

DeGaulle Puts Algerian Plan Up To Voters

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle announced Wednesday he is going to submit to French voters a plan for a new system of government for rebellious Algeria.

The new system would prevail, a Cabinet announcement said, until Algerians themselves decided their own future in a subsequent vote under De Gaulle's doctrine of self-determination. Autonomy appears to be the end in view.

De Gaulle's action had been expected, and there have been predictions that any referendum will go the way he wants it to. But the developments may touch off explosions among European settlers of Algeria, who want the African territory to remain part of France.

Breaking some of the secrecy shrouding his deliberations on the thorny problem, De Gaulle told a Cabinet meeting that "at the appropriate time" he will ask the nation's approval of a new system of government in Algeria.

The Cabinet was asked to draft the text of this new provisional constitution, and to prepare for the referendum. Spokesman said it is up to the Cabinet to decide whether voters in Algeria will also be able to participate in this referendum.

Technically, Algeria is now part of France and participates in all national elections. But the Cabinet could rule that public order was too troubled in Algeria to permit voting.

The Cabinet announcement did not mention local autonomy. But De Gaulle, in his Nov. 4 radio-TV address to the nation, spoke of an eventual Algerian republic. And he said the Algerian administration must henceforth be completely in the hands of Algerians—the so-called Algerian Algeria which has become his goal.

LONDON (AP)—A dental surgeon is being called in to decide how many of Elizabeth Taylors' teeth must be removed to restore her to health, an informed source said Wednesday.

"We have asked the surgeon to decide how many teeth will have to go to rid her of this infection once and for all," said the informant.

He asserted, however, that Miss Taylor is feeling much better after treatment for meningism — a brain irritation that causes fever and splitting headaches. Her illness was finally diagnosed Tuesday night 48 hours after she was admitted to the London clinic writhing in agony.

Md. Baptists Approve 1961 Program Budget

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland Baptists approved a goal of $485,000 Wednesday for their cooperative program budget for 1961.

The first $475,000 of the amount would be divided 40 per cent to Southern Baptist Convention causes and 60 per cent to Maryland Baptist causes. All funds contributed above that amount would be distributed 50 per cent to the Southern Baptist Convention, 25 per cent to the church loan fund and 25 per cent to capital needs and a contingency fund.

The action came at the close of the 125th annual convention of the statewide organization, which officially changed its name to the Baptist Convention of Maryland from Maryland Baptist Union Association.

Laos Premier Charges U. S. Supports Rival

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Souvanna Phouma charged Wednesday the United States illegally supports Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, making his right-wing rebel regime less willing to compromise. U. S. officials defended their position as perfectly legal under agreement already made with Souvanna.

The neutralist premiers' rebuke of the United States was his strongest and most bitter since he came to power after a coup last August.

Laos is in the grip of civil turmoil with three opposing sides—Souvannas' neutralist government, Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels who want a place in the government, and Phoumis' military element pledged to eliminate the Pathet Lao.

Asked by newsmen if he sees any possibility of a compromise with Phoumi, Souvanna said: "It does not depend on me anymore. Everything depends on the United States. This is no longer a national problem. Its' an international problem. The United States must bring Phoumi to reason.'

The premiers' attitude toward the United States reflects his precarious position following the defection last Friday to Phoumis' ranks of the military garrison at Luang Prabang, the royal capital to the north.

Asked if he thought the United States was behind that defection, Souvanna replied: "I dont' think so. I dont' know."

The premier was especially critical of U. S. relations with Phoumis' headquarters in the southern city of Savannakhet.

"There is a close alliance between the United States and Savannakhet," he said, adding that such American support is illegal.

Appeals Court Hears Suit For Life Expectancy Loss

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Ted Rhone asked the Court of Appeals Wednesday to decide if he is entitled to damages for a loss of life expectancy.

Rhone appealed a Baltimore City Superior Court award of $1,500 in a $175,000 damage suit he filed against Joel N. Fisher.

Rhone claimed a heart attack suffered three days after he was hit by Fisher's car while on his way to work was related to the accident.

His attorneys produced a medical witness at the trial who said it was "highly probable" that the heart attack was connected with the accident.

Evidence was introduced showing that 50 per cent of the people suffering an attack similar to Rhone's who were in his age class and physical condition were dead within seven years. Another witness said that based on the U. S. life tables of 1949-51, a male of Rhone's age had a life expectancy of approximately 18 and one-half years.

Rhone claimed that the lower court erred in failing to instruct the jury with respect to his loss of life expectancy.

Fisher's attorneys contended that Rhone's life expectancy was short of the 18 and one-half years claimed due to the fact that he was suffering from hardening of the arteries and diabetes at the time of the accident. They also claimed shortening of life is not an independently compensable element of damages.

The high court took the case under advisement.

Jury Convicts Silva Of Second Degree Murder

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Walter William Silva, a 39-year-old California laborer, was convicted of second-degree murder Wednesday in the slaying of his wife last February.

Silva, a former rubber plant worker at Hayward, Calif., showed no emotion as a Dorchester County jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict after deliberating three hours.

The State had sought a first-degree murder verdict in the strangulation death of Mrs. Kathryn Silva, 23, last Feb. 14 at a Salisbury, Md. motel.

Circuit Court Judges W. Laird Henry Jr. and Rex A. Taylor deferred sentencing for three days pending a possible new-trial move by defense attorneys.

Silva had entered two pleas—one of innocent and one of innocent by reason of insanity. The jury ruled he is sane now and was sane at the time of the crime.

Silva's sister, Mrs. Rose Vaughn of Napa, Calif., sat with him in an anteroom while the jury was out. She had testified as a defense witness during the three-day trial which was moved here from neighboring Wicomico County at the request of the defense.

Nixons' total for the counties is 374,911 compared to Kennedy's 363,106, or an advantage of 11,805.

Unofficial totals on election day showed the vice president leading by 9,894 with 368,282 votes compared to Kennedys' 358,388.

The official canvass has not been completed in Baltimore City, where Kennedy has built up a lead of 88,000 votes as he won the states' nine electoral votes.

Kennedy, unofficially, still maintains a 76,472 vote lead in Maryland. That total includes an unofficial, incomplete figure for Baltimore City.

In gaining the 1,911 vote advantage over Kennedy since election day, Nixon didnt' pick up a large advantage in any one county.

His biggest gain was Montgomery County where he increased his total by 519 more than Kennedy. In most counties, Nixons' advantage-gain was less than 100.

Nixon picked up more votes than Kennedy in 17 counties, Kennedy outpolled his opponent in four counties, Kent County's figures didnt' change and both lost votes in Carolines' canvass.

In Marylands' four suburban counties, Nixon picked up a 1,056 vote gain over Kennedy. In addition to Montgomerys' 519, he also added 166 in Anne Arundel and 401 in Baltimore County. But Kennedy had the edge by 40 votes in Prince Georges County.

DeGaulle Puts Algerian Plan Up To Voters

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle announced Wednesday he is going to submit to French voters a plan for a new system of government for rebellious Algeria.

The new system would prevail, a Cabinet announcement said, until Algerians themselves decided their own future in a subsequent vote under De Gaulle's doctrine of self-determination. Autonomy appears to be the end in view.

De Gaulle's action had been expected, and there have been predictions that any referendum will go the way he wants it to. But the developments may touch off explosions among European settlers of Algeria, who want the African territory to remain part of France.

Breaking some of the secrecy shrouding his deliberations on the thorny problem, De Gaulle told a Cabinet meeting that "at the appropriate time" he will ask the nation's approval of a new system of government in Algeria.

The Cabinet was asked to draft the text of this new provisional constitution, and to prepare for the referendum. Spokesman said it is up to the Cabinet to decide whether voters in Algeria will also be able to participate in this referendum.

Technically, Algeria is now part of France and participates in all national elections. But the Cabinet could rule that public order was too troubled in Algeria to permit voting.

The Cabinet announcement did not mention local autonomy. But De Gaulle, in his Nov. 4 radio-TV address to the nation, spoke of an eventual Algerian republic. And he said the Algerian administration must henceforth be completely in the hands of Algerians—the so-called Algerian Algeria which has become his goal.

How Many Teeth Liz Will Lose Up To Surgeon

LONDON (AP)—A dental surgeon is being called in to decide how many of Elizabeth Taylors' teeth must be removed to restore her to health, an informed source said Wednesday.

A virus infection aggravated by bad teeth has put the lovely star in a hospital for the second time in two weeks.

"We have asked the surgeon to decide how many teeth will have to go to rid her of this infection once and for all," said the informant.

He asserted, however, that Miss Taylor is feeling much better after treatment for meningism — a brain irritation that causes fever and splitting headaches. Her illness was finally diagnosed Tuesday night 48 hours after she was admitted to the London clinic writhing in agony.

Md. Baptists Approve 1961 Program Budget

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland Baptists approved a goal of $485,000 Wednesday for their cooperative program budget for 1961.

The first $475,000 of the amount would be divided 40 per cent to Southern Baptist Convention causes and 60 per cent to Maryland Baptist causes. All funds contributed above that amount would be distributed 50 per cent to the Southern Baptist Convention, 25 per cent to the church loan fund and 25 per cent to capital needs and a contingency fund.

The action came at the close of the 125th annual convention of the statewide organization, which officially changed its name to the Baptist Convention of Maryland from Maryland Baptist Union Association.

Laos Premier Charges U. S. Supports Rival

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Souvanna Phouma charged Wednesday the United States illegally supports Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, making his right-wing rebel regime less willing to compromise. U. S. officials defended their position as perfectly legal under agreement already made with Souvanna.

The neutralist premiers' rebuke of the United States was his strongest and most bitter since he came to power after a coup last August.

Laos is in the grip of civil turmoil with three opposing sides—Souvannas' neutralist government, Communist-led Pathet Lao rebels who want a place in the government, and Phoumis' military element pledged to eliminate the Pathet Lao.

Asked by newsmen if he sees any possibility of a compromise with Phoumi, Souvanna said: "It does not depend on me anymore. Everything depends on the United States. This is no longer a national problem. Its' an international problem. The United States must bring Phoumi to reason."

The premiers' attitude toward the United States reflects his precarious position following the defection last Friday to Phoumis' ranks of the military garrison at Luang Prabang, the royal capital to the north.

Asked if he thought the United States was behind that defection, Souvanna replied: "I dont' think so. I dont' know."

The premier was especially critical of U. S. relations with Phoumis' headquarters in the southern city of Savannakhet.

"There is a close alliance between the United States and Savannakhet," he said, adding that such American support is illegal.

Appeals Court Hears Suit For Life Expectancy Loss

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Ted Rhone asked the Court of Appeals Wednesday to decide if he is entitled to damages for a loss of life expectancy.

Rhone appealed a Baltimore City Superior Court award of $1,500 in a $175,000 damage suit he filed against Joel N. Fisher.

Rhone claimed a heart attack suffered three days after he was hit by Fisher's car while on his way to work was related to the accident.

His attorneys produced a medical witness at the trial who said it was "highly probable" that the heart attack was connected with the accident.

Evidence was introduced showing that 50 per cent of the people suffering an attack similar to Rhone's who were in his age class and physical condition were dead within seven years. Another witness said that based on the U. S. life tables of 1949-51, a male of Rhone's age had a life expectancy of approximately 18 and one-half years.

Rhone claimed that the lower court erred in failing to instruct the jury with respect to his loss of life expectancy.

Fisher's attorneys contended that Rhone's life expectancy was short of the 18 and one-half years claimed due to the fact that he was suffering from hardening of the arteries and diabetes at the time of the accident. They also claimed shortening of life is not an independently compensable element of damages.

The high court took the case under advisement.

Jury Convicts Silva Of Second Degree Murder

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Walter William Silva, a 39-year-old California laborer, was convicted of second-degree murder Wednesday in the slaying of his wife last February.

Silva, a former rubber plant worker at Hayward, Calif., showed no emotion as a Dorchester County jury of eight women and four men returned the verdict after deliberating three hours.

The State had sought a first-degree murder verdict in the strangulation death of Mrs. Kathryn Silva, 23, last Feb. 14 at a Salisbury, Md. motel.

Circuit Court Judges W. Laird Henry Jr. and Rex A. Taylor deferred sentencing for three days pending a possible new-trial move by defense attorneys.

Silva had entered two pleas—one of innocent and one of innocent by reason of insanity. The jury ruled he is sane now and was sane at the time of the crime.

Silva's sister, Mrs. Rose Vaughn of Napa, Calif., sat with him in an anteroom while the jury was out. She had testified as a defense witness during the three-day trial which was moved here from neighboring Wicomico County at the request of the defense.

Baltimore Suburbs Plagued By Rabbits

BALTIMORE (AP)—Too many rabbits! That's the word from suburban gardeners in the Baltimore area.

There seems to have been a population explosion among the rabbits, which are known for multiplying, anyway.

But the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, reporting Wednesday on the cottontail complaints, said there's nothing to worry about because the odds are all against the rabbit.

"Everything is an enemy of rabbits," said Gordon L. Saunders, regional game warden.

Biologists figure the life cycle of the rabbit at three months. Saunders said one reason for the extra rabbits is that nature was kind last spring. There was less rain than usual, so fewer baby bunnies drowned.

The game commission has a man out in the suburbs, trapping the rabbits, taking them farther out in the country, and turning them loose. The trapper has some help, besides.

The rabbit season opened Tuesday and the rabbit will be fair game for the next three months.

The tanks will proceed slowly through downtown streets to the Baltimore - Washington Expressway and then south to the Army post.

Champ Steer Brings $2,134

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — The auction of the grand champion steer at the Eastern National Livestock Show Wednesday brought its owner $2,134.

The 970-pound Aberdeen-Angus bought by the Esskay Meat Packing Co. of Baltimore at $2.20 a pound. The steer was owned by Bill Clemens of Peosta, Iowa.

Earlier in the day, the results of the inter-collegiate meat judging contest were announced. Fourteen college teams, with three students per team, spent several days judging livestock on the hoof and in the packing houses.

Ohio State took first place with 2,609 of a possible 3,000 points. The team members are Dean Biery of Mt. Cory, Ohio; Richard Sutherly of Troy, Ohio, and Paul Schlagbaum of Ft. Jennings, Ohio.

A college team must place first for three years to win the National Livestock and Meat Challenge Trophy. A team from the University of Wiscon retired the trophy last year. This was Ohio State's first win.

Michigan State and Wisconsin placed second and third, respectively. The University of Maryland team finished last.

Service Charge Over 6% Is Ruled Illegal

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Magistrate Irving M. Einbinder has come to the rescue of beleaguered installment-buyers in Washington County.

He ruled Wednesday that Hagerstown stores cannot add a credit charge of more than the 6 per cent legal rate of interest, even if it is called a service or carrying charge, unless licensed by the State Small Loan Commission.

Einbinder made the ruling in deciding a case in which a chain store brought suit to collect $213 from a customer.

The magistrate calculated that the carrying charge on the bill amounted to 1½ per cent per month or 18 per cent per year.

Owner Believes His Club "Fingered" For Holdup

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — William V. Rose, admitted operator of a club where men gathered to gamble, testified Wednesday he believed a Washington visitor "fingered" it for a holdup.

"They were informed we were holding a big bank crap game," Rose said of five men accused of robbing nearly a score of club patrons of about $10,000.

Rose testified at the trial of four men charged with the holdup. The fifth was granted a separate trial because he is hospitalized.

Rose said he and two other men he identified as Eugene Powell and "Slim" Kerns, operated the Spartan Club in Frederick. It was held up last April and the trial transferred to Ellicott City.

Rose said the three operators "cut the pots" of poker games at the club, but that all the money went for operating expenses and there was no profit.

In reply to one question whether it was a gambling club, Rose replied in the affirmative. But later he described it as "just a place where a lot of us boys used to gather to play cards."

Rose, who also operates a restaurant in Frederick, said he thought a man from Washington he identified only as "Checkers" had "put the finger on us."

He said the man, formerly a frequent visitor, showed up for the first time in six weeks at the club the night of the holdup and asked where the telephone was located.

During the cross-examination of Rose, Judge James Macgill threatened Howard Levine, one of the defense attorneys from Washington, with contempt of court.

The judge told Levine to desist from a line of questioning about Rose's gambling activities and his income tax reports.

"I'm warning you not to persist in this line of questioning," Judge Macgill told Levine.

Defense lawyers tried to prove that Rose couldn't identify either of two men who held up the club with a sawed off shotgun and a pistol.

The two robbers made most of the patrons remove their pants before making their getaway. Five men later were arrested in a car at a police road block.

Those on trial are Johnny Douglas, 43, and Willie Williams, 35, of Newark, N.J.; James Toland, 55, of Washington, and Charles Graves, 35, of East Orange, N.J.

The fifth defendant is Benjamin Grief, 51, of New York.

Transistor In Abdomen Keeps W. Va. Boy Alive

BOSTON (UPI)—A tiny transistor inserted in his abdomen is keeping an 8-year-old West Virginia boy alive, doctors said Tuesday.

The tiny "pacemaker" placed in front of Larry Graves' left kidney is linked to his heart by wires and platinum nodes. The electric pulses keep his damaged heart beating.

Graves, of Fairmont, W. Va., is believed to be the first child to have a "pacemaker" inserted in his abdomen. The operation was performed last Thursday at Children's Hospital Medical Center.

Young Graves had undergone surgery on Oct. 14 to plug a leak between the ventricles of his heart. He had been kept alive in the interim by "external stimulation" of the heart muscles.

The heart leak had permitted used blood to contaminate fresh blood from the boy's lungs.

The transistor, about the size of a cigaret lighter, has been used before on adults, but it is believed to be the first use on a child. The device was designed by Dr. Paul N. Zoll of Newton, Mass. for use in cases of Stokes-Adams disease when heart beat is insufficient to sustain life.

At least 90 per cent of the country's schools provide rhythm band training in kindergarten and primary grades.

1970 Jetliners To Circle Globe At 2,000 MPH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The air traveler of 1970 will zip around the world in a 2,000-mile-per-hour, steel-jacketed speed demon that will be longer, slimmer and heavier than today's jets, two engineers said Tuesday.

Private industry can turn out such planes—provided they receive financial help from the government, Lloyd C. Goodmanson and Lars G. Romberg said.

The planes, flying at three times the speed of sound, 60,000 to 80,000 feet above the earth, will allow a man to fly from New York to Cairo in five hours—the length of time it took to fly from New York to Chicago in the late 1930s, the engineers said in a report to a symposium on fuels and lubricants.

Goodmanson and Romberg, of Boeing Aircraft Co., Seattle, said the supersonic transports will be longer and slimmer and will have shorter and thinner wings than current subsonic jets, to reduce drag.

Due to the heat encountered when aircraft go faster than Mach 2 (twice the speed of sound), aluminum structures must give way to steel and titanium, the report said.

Other special requirements include fuel systems designed to keep fuels from boiling away or igniting ahead of time at high speeds.

"As far as can be decided now, the airline industry should be able to finance the purchase of supersonic transports around 1970," the report said. It noted that subsonic jets bought today have a planned depreciation period of 10 years.

But even though airlines should be able to buy supersonic planes in 10 years, the engineers said, "no United States airframe producer today has the financial capability to develop a supersonic transport without assistance."

Plans Announced

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union plans to build 30,000 miles of new power lines every five years, the Tass news agency said Wednesday. The official Soviet agency said the figure would be three to four times the present rate of line construction.

Charged With Rape

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Anne Arundel County police have charged David Edward Link, 28, of Glen Burnie, with the rape of an 8-year-old girl.

Magistrate Ralph C. Boyd ordered Link held without bail in the county jail for action of the grand jury.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Did you know that Richard Rodgers — the same Rodgers who wrote the music for "Oklahoma" and "South Pacific" — once wrote the music for an opus called "Prisms, Prunes and Plums"?

And did you know that the lilting loveliness of the song "April in Paris" came through to the critics on opening night, even though the lady singing the tune had laryngitis and had to croak the tune over the footlights?

Well, unless you're Stanley Green's wife, you couldn't be expected to know such oddments about the world of musical comedy. Green's just written a book about "The World Of Musical Comedy" and he said in interview that his wife was an arch-editor of the book.

"If the book's wry and witty, as some critics have claimed," he said, "it's because my wife's wry and witty. I used her as a sounding board when selecting oddments for the text."

"In spite of my attempts to be serious about the report on the musical theatre in America," he said, "the brash, impudent world of the theatre shines like a grinning gremlin through every chapter."

For example, Green's book seriously notes that:

—The young Jerome Kern, sent on a maiden business venture to buy two pianos, got talked into buying 200. This convinced the elder Kern that his son had no business sense, so he let the youngster do what he wanted—go to music school.

—In 1907 a young singing waiter in a Chinatown cafe was pressured by his boss into writing a song because a rival tavern's waiter had a song published. To uphold the honor of his restaurant, young Israel Baline wrote a ditty and signed it "I. Berlin." Since then, he has signed all his other songs Irving Berlin.

Green's book traces the development of musical comedy in the United States through the lives of 28 of the men who had a share in its development.

But Green said that from these vastly different lives, there can be no formula drawn on what makes a successful lyricist or composer.

Some rose from poverty or near poverty. For example, E. Y. Harburg, George Gershwin. But many came from financially secure homes — Arthur Schwartz, Burton Lane, Lorenz Hart, Oscar Hammerstein II and one — Cole Porter — was a millionaire!

Green said the formal schooling of the musical successes ranges from roughly nothing—George M. Cohan — to Harvard and the Julliard School of Music —Alan Jay Lerner.

He said most got into the world of musical comedy via the route of song plugging or the now-dead vaudeville theater. However, one —Leonard Bernstein — first made news as the conductor of a symphony orchestra.

Many citied in Green's book were immigrants—Victor Herbert, Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg, Frederick Loewe, Jule Styne. Some are refugees—Vernon Duke, Kurt Weill. And others are third and fourth generation American — Meredith Wilson and Vincent Youmans.

The lives of the success prove the late Oscar Hammerstein's dictum that "there's only one thing you've got to be in musical comedy," Green said.

Hammerstein said: "You've got to be good."

"for lightness, no whiskies compare with the two imports-Canadian and Scotch."

"I know. And imported Canadian Club is the lightest whisky in the world."

—In 1907 a young singing waiter in a Chinatown cafe was pressured by his boss into writing a song because a rival tavern's waiter had a song published. To uphold the honor of his restaurant, young Israel Baline wrote a ditty and signed it "I. Berlin." Since then, he has signed all his other songs Irving Berlin.

Green's book traces the development of musical comedy in the United States through the lives of 28 of the men who had a share in its development.

But Green said that from these vastly different lives, there can be no formula drawn on what makes a successful lyricist or composer.

Some rose from poverty or near poverty. For example, E. Y. Harburg, George Gershwin. But many came from financially secure homes — Arthur Schwartz, Burton Lane, Lorenz Hart, Oscar Hammerstein II and one — Cole Porter — was a millionaire!

Green said the formal schooling of the musical successes ranges from roughly nothing—George M. Cohan — to Harvard and the Julliard School of Music —Alan Jay Lerner.

He said most got into the world of musical comedy via the route of song plugging or the now-dead vaudeville theater. However, one —Leonard Bernstein — first made news as the conductor of a symphony orchestra.

Many citied in Green's book were immigrants—Victor Herbert, Rudolph Friml, Sigmund Romberg, Frederick Loewe, Jule Styne. Some are refugees—Vernon Duke, Kurt Weill. And others are third and fourth generation American — Meredith Wilson and Vincent Youmans.

The lives of the success prove the late Oscar Hammerstein's dictum that "there's only one thing you've got to be in musical comedy," Green said.

Hammerstein said: "You've got to be good."

"for lightness, no whiskies compare with the two imports-Canadian and Scotch."

"I know. And imported Canadian Club is the lightest whisky in the world."

Cowboy Shrine Being Built In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A shrine to the American cowboy is taking shape on a hill overlooking a cross-country highway here.

Construction is being done by phases on the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Museum at the hillside site on an expressway which carries traffic from U.S. 66 and two other major highways.

The $5 million project is a joint venture of 17 western states. It was conceived by the late C.A. Reynolds of Kansas City in 1947. Trustees from the states chose Oklahoma City as the site in 1955, and each state has carried on fund drives to finance the structure.

On a recent visit, Dr. Clifford L. Lord of New York, president of the National Association of State and Local Historical Societies, said the cowboy shrine would be a $40 million-a-year tourist attraction.

"There's nothing anywhere in the country like the western heritage center where people can come to see what makes the great West great," he said.

Western movie actor John Wayne also praised the project.

"It sure is typical of the old West," Wayne said. "All that wide open space."

HIGH BUDGET IDEA

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Newton Arnold makes his debut as director in "The Answer," for which he also wrote the screenplay and is co-producer.

Although admittedly a low budget picture, Arnold says he hopes to make it with "quality."

"By 'quality'," he explained. "I mean an honest and entertaining picture which presents realistic human emotions in a stimulating way."

Los Angeles Police Force Protects City With Largest Area Of Any In Nation

By ROBERT W. FLICK

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Madison 45211 is dialed more than two million times a year to report a child lost, a car stolen or a murder. It's the telephone number of the Los Angeles Police Department—one of the most modern law enforcement agencies in the country.

Facts and figures usually add up to a rather dull story except when they are combined to present a staggering picture. Such is the role of LAPD.

Los Angeles has 457 square miles of territory. Its population ranks third in the United States behind New York and Chicago. Its area is second to none.

Its city limits encompass an area larger than Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco, Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Washington, D.C., combined. A big town with a big job to maintain order.

What makes it so tough to police? In addition to the obvious answer—a vast area, 2.25 million population and a tremendous variety of industry—there are unique features which include status as a port of entry, proximity to a foreign country, huge transient and tourist influx, and the greatest number of autos of any city.

Who does the job? Some 4,607 officers. It sounds impossible and looks so on paper. But Chief of Police William H. Parker, veteran of 36 years in law enforcement, gets the work done.

"Parker is all cop," one of his officers said. "He's a cop 24 hours a day. He eats, sleeps and thinks law every minute of the day. He's the most dedicated man I ever saw."

Los Angeles is a tough place to commit a crime and get away with it. And the more serious the offense, the less chance you have of not being arrested.

There were 134 murders here in 1959—more than one every three days. Facts tell the story—96.3 per cent were solved.

The word spreads fast. Of all major crimes, only aggravated assault and rape—considered crimes of passion and regarded as less sensitive to police repression—increased by a small percentage over 1958. All others declined.

The police department is divided into 15 divisions—scattered from the harbor to Hollywood and maintained at a cost of just under $4.5 million a year.

Parker is the first to admit the force is understaffed for the tremendous task it must perform. But getting new officers that can stand up under stiff LAPD requirements is difficult. Last year 4,332 men applied—256 were accepted.

In addition to the vast everyday job to be performed, there were 575 special events last year that were so large they required larger than normal police protection. One such incident was the visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Parker, together with Soviet and U.S. State Department officials, drew up a 127-page plan pinpointing positions and duties of 667 officers.

To add to the difficulty there were 39 Russian and 486 U.S. newsmen to contend with. It went off, as does most everything Parker has a hand in, without a hitch.

What's the biggest problem? Traffic.

There were 353 persons killed in traffic accidents in 1959, with a grand total of 48,035 vehicle accidents. One-and-one-third million motorists were cited for traffic violations.

Therein lies the problem—the only contact more than a million citizens have with the law is getting a traffic ticket.

Capt. O. K. Berger, chief of the Public Information Division, said traffic problems put the law enforcement shoe on the other foot.

"A policeman is a great guy when he's chasing a murderer or a burglar down the street to protect the neighborhood. But when he pulls you over to the curb and cites you for driving improperly he becomes a regulator instead of a protector.

"All drivers consider themselves law abiding citizens and think the police department is there to stamp out crime—not bother with the average citizen.

"No law, therefore, is better than the public that it governs. Law is like medicine—you can't have a good medical record in a town indifferent to personal hygiene."

Berger pointed out that only 10 per cent of the population comes in direct contact with a policeman during their lifetime—and traffic violators comprise 9 per cent of that total.

"Most people that come in contact with the department find themselves being regulated, they think, instead of being protected. When you stop to think about it the two terms mean almost the same thing," Berger concluded. "One of our biggest jobs is to convince the people of that fact."

Among all the ticket punches used by more than 10 thousand railroad conductors in the United States, no two punches make a hole of the same shape.

Cowboy Shrine Being Built In Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A shrine to the American cowboy is taking shape on a hill overlooking a cross-country highway here.

Construction is being done by phases on the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Museum at the hillside site on an expressway which carries traffic from U.S. 66 and two other major highways.

The $5 million project is a joint venture of 17 western states. It was conceived by the late C.A. Reynolds of Kansas City in 1947. Trustees from the states chose Oklahoma City as the site in 1955, and each state has carried on fund drives to finance the structure.

On a recent visit, Dr. Clifford L. Lord of New York, president of the National Association of State and Local Historical Societies, said the cowboy shrine would be a $40 million-a-year tourist attraction.

"There's nothing anywhere in the country like the western heritage center where people can come to see what makes the great West great," he said.

Western movie actor John Wayne also praised the project.

"It sure is typical of the old West," Wayne said. "All that wide open space."

HIGH BUDGET IDEA

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Newton Arnold makes his debut as director in "The Answer," for which he also wrote the screenplay and is co-producer.

Although admittedly a low budget picture, Arnold says he hopes to make it with "quality."

"By 'quality'," he explained. "I mean an honest and entertaining picture which presents realistic human emotions in a stimulating way."

Izvestia Quoted

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said Wednesday that recent strikes and demonstrations in Spain mean "the Franco regime is tottering." The Tass news agency quoted an Izvestia report as saying many underground newspapers exist in Spain, anti-government leaflets are passed out, and letters of protest are directed to Generalissimo Francisco Franco's government from all parts of the nation.

Cyprus Asks Grain

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Cyprus Cabinet asked the United States Tuesday for 40,000 tons of wheat and 10,000 tons of barley to help relieve shortages caused by a severe drought.

Los Angeles Police Force Protects City With Largest Area Of Any In Nation

By ROBERT W. FLICK

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Madison 45211 is dialed more than two million times a year to report a child lost, a car stolen or a murder. It's the telephone number of the Los Angeles Police Department—one of the most modern law enforcement agencies in the country.

Facts and figures usually add up to a rather dull story except when they are combined to present a staggering picture. Such is the role of LAPD.

Los Angeles has 457 square miles of territory. Its population ranks third in the United States behind New York and Chicago. Its area is second to none.

Its city limits encompass an area larger than Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco, Boston, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Washington, D.C., combined. A big town with a big job to maintain order.

What makes it so tough to police? In addition to the obvious answer—a vast area, 2.25 million population and a tremendous variety of industry—there are unique features which include status as a port of entry, proximity to a foreign country, huge transient and tourist influx, and the greatest number of autos of any city.

Azikiwe studied at Howard University in Washington, D. C., and the university of Pennsylvania. A number of American Negro dignitaries, including United Nations official Dr. Ralph Bunche were among the guests invited to the inauguration.

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic flew to Sudan Tuesday for a 10-day official visit at the invitation of the Sudanese government.

Planning Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harland Bartholomew has been retained as an adviser by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

A spokesman for the agency, which prepares development plans for Montgomery and Prince Georges counties, Md., said Bartholomew would be employed on a part-time basis on a retainer of $7,200 a year.

WM Makes $359,000 In October

The Western Maryland Railway reported yesterday it made $359,000 last month, a huge increase from the October, 1959 total, but then that was a steel strike month.

Last month's profits pushed Western Maryland's net for the first ten months of 1960 to $4,248,000.

That figure in itself is a telling commentary on general business conditions thus far this year.

Even with the steel strike to cut last year's net, the railway's profits for the first ten months of 1959 were $4,567,000, slightly better than this year's total for the same period.

The Western Maryland's October earnings were equal to 18 cents a common share, nine times as much as the earnings for the same month last year.

The road's earnings per common share for the first ten months of this year are equal to $2.29, compared with $2.43 at this time last year.

County Board To Meet Saturday

The Board of Commissioners of Allegany County will meet Saturday morning, instead of Friday, according to John J. Rowan, president.

The change was necessitated because of conflicting engagements, Rowan said, explaining that the county group will attend a meeting of the Western District Commissioners today in Hagerstown.

On Friday, he added, Commissioner John T. Mason and Roads Supervisor Harry Skelly will attend a meeting in Frederick with representatives of the State Roads Commission.

Car Club Plans Rally

The Western Maryland Sports Car Club will hold a tour rally to Gallitzen, Pa., Sunday with dinner at Erculini's Restaurant there.

Femininity is an outlook!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

What's More Natural Than Femininity?

What men like is feminine women. There's no substitute for the basic attraction of genuine femininity. It's as old and reliable as humanity itself.

Femininity has a warmth and emotional quality that we men love in the "real" woman who possesses it. Over thirty years I have been teaching women to make the most of themselves, telling them there is "no such thing as an unattractive woman." I also believe that the most charming girl is the natural one. And, what is more natural for a woman to be truly feminine?

A feminine woman of great charm can give a mediocre party sparkle the minute she walks into the room. She need not be a real beauty nor young. Members of the sterner sex hover around her — she always brings out the chivalrous qualities in them. Other women, who may be much more brilliant or even more attractive can't understand why the men can't resist her charm. Perhaps they have been so busy making a success of a career or winning Oscars that they lose sight of how important wholesome womanliness is to a man.

Some foolish women go so far as thinking like a man, becoming domineering, aggresive and opinionated. A man doesn't like a woman who tries to imitate him and rejects her own feminine nature.

Planning Meet Scheduled Here Dec. 1

James J. O'Donnell, director of the Maryland State Planning Commission, will be here Thursday, December 1, to meet with members of the Mayor and Council and the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

Further discussion of local planning will be held. Also to be in attendance, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech, will be James B. Woglom of Easton, Pa., a member of the firm of Morris, Knowles and Company, who will discuss city planning for Cumberland.

O'Donnell was invited here by Mayor Keech who proposed three possible dates for the meeting.

The session here will be just two days before a State Planning Conference is held in the Student Union Building of the University of Maryland, College Park.

The Saturday meeting will attract representatives of the Maryland Association of County Commissioners, Maryland Municipal League and the Municipal Advisory Service of the University.

A number of Cumberland and Allegany County officials are expected to attend.

Highlight of the conference, which begins at 9:30 a. m. and concludes at 4:15 p. m., will be a luncheon at which Gov. J. Millard Tawes will be speaker.

O'Donnell said the meeting will include discussions of a broad scope in the planning field and will be of great interest to those officials and citizens from communities where no formal planning agency or activity exists as well as to those already engaged in planning. A display to illustrate various phases of a program as depicted in planning studies of several Maryland communities will be a feature.

George Ekaitis' Death Is Caused By Asphyxiation

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—George L. Ekaitis, a star athlete at Western Maryland College 30 years ago, was found dead in the heater room of his home Monday. He was 54.

Authorities said Ekaitis apparently had put a rope over a pipe in the cellar and around his neck. He died of asphyxiation. His wife discovered the body and called police.

Ekaitis taught at Atlantic City High School for the past 12 years, first on the physical education faculty and then as a mathematics instructor.

He graduated in 1931 from Western Maryland, where he gained renown as a football player, boxer, swimmer and lacrosse player. He later served as assistant athletic director at Washington College in Chestertown, Md., head football coach at Washington College and assistant football coach at Lehigh.

All the plans are contingent on the Yankees accepting an invitation to move their spring training camp here from St. Petersburg.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 NT	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣

An elementary problem in card combinations is presented in today's offering; yet it is one which players of considerable experience will sometimes overlook under the pressure of actual competition.

The bidding was not very eventful, and against the final contract of four spades West opened the king of clubs on which East played the queen. This normally calls for an underlead of the ace by the opening leader, but West, having no quick reentry, cashed the ace and then the ten. With the "book" tricks in, West got out with the nine of clubs in order to await developments.

Declarer was aware of no danger in the hand, and, without giving the matter much thought played the ace of trumps out of his own hand, and with it signed his own death warrant, for East could not now be prevented from winning a trick in spades.

A time honored ritual would have stood declarer in good stead as he attacked the problem of this hand. He should have raised the question, "What holding do I fear?" The answer is obviously all four trumps in one hand. If the four happen to be in the West hand, then he need give the matter no further concern for nature has placed an insurmountable obstacle in his path but, if East has all four trumps, proper management will permit declarer to pick up the suit.

Correct play is a low trump to the queen, and West shows out the situation is clear and dummy returns the nine of spades, forcing East to split his honors else the dummy's nine will hold the trick. Declarer reenters dummy with a heart and puts through another trump to finesse East out of his remaining honor.

What If They'd Had TV Then?

Thursday Morning, November 17, 1960

Who would have won other Presidential elections had there been a TV "great debate" of the sort which many believe gave John Kennedy his big breakthrough to the Presidency?

A group of high ranking Republicans and Democrats at a Washington dinner table a few nights after the election chewed that question over, according to a Washington correspondent. Here was their consensus, which the reader might check against his own opinions:

Adlai Stevenson would have won the debates against Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 because he is quicker and uses the English language with more ease. Whether that would have turned many voters against the popular war hero is another question.

Thomas E. Dewey, a master of the debate technique, would have cut Harry S. Truman to pieces. But Dewey would have been lucky to break even with Franklin Roosevelt in 1944. FDR would have crushed his 1932 and 1936 opponents, Hoover and Landon, and probably would have bested his 1940 foe, Wendell Willkie.

In fact, if this group's opinion is any indicator, the Democrats would have benefited all along. The Washington diners thought Al Smith would have looked better on TV in 1928 than Hoover; that John W. Davis would have pulverized "Silent Cal" Coolidge in 1924, and that James M. Cox would have been the TV victor over Warren G. Harding in 1920.

History might have been changed as radically in the past by TV debates as many think it has been this year.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Dollar

The first order of business after the Election is the dollar. The Eisenhower Administration has not understood the nature of money and got caught in a very tight squeeze when the London gold market ran gold up to $41 an ounce. The legal rate for the United States is $35 an ounce and therefore the rise on the London market meant that there was a sudden purchase of gold as against American dollars. This rise could have readily, had it continued, reduced the value of the dollar tragically.

The question still to be answered is, who was buying this gold? The first assumption was that Soviet Russia was manipulating the gold market to force a devaluation of the dollar—an act which can destroy the economy of the United States. But there is the kind of hearsay which a knowledgeable person would believe as true, to accept it that American firms and American banks were buying gold by international telephone to London, Zurich and Amsterdam as a runaway from the dollar.

It is true that an individual is justified in protecting himself from economic collapse but it is fairly close to a betrayal of the country to take any step at the present time to damage the dollar which is suffering from bad management.

The campaign is over and there is no value in covering up the danger that now exists to our currency. Earmarked gold reserves are not to be counted as belonging to the United States unless the Treasury plans to put an embargo on gold; otherwise, the only gold reserves are what remains to this country after the earmarked gold is deducted. Therefore, the peril is that if measured realistically and conservatively, it is possible that we actually have no gold reserves left. The British have a reserve of more than $3,000,000,000; the West Germans about $6,000,000,000; the Russians $9,800,000,000 If the United States cannot maintain a gold reserve sufficient to uphold the dollar as a hard currency, all Western currencies can collapse. This was one of the reasons why the British came to our rescue between October 20-27. They could not let the American dollar go to pot.

This is the Number One question that faces our government now. It is not sound to wait until January 20 to do something about gold. Something needs to be done now; otherwise, it will not be possible to avoid devaluing the dollar because the dollar will be without even the 25 per cent gold protection guaranteed by law.

Politicians, as a matter of practice, wait until a crisis faces them and then they act. If they succeed in pulling their country out of a bad situation, they are heroes; if they fail, they are cursed. There is not too much time left to play with the dollar. The October 20th rise in gold was a signal. It was like a small coronary thrombosis which often precedes a big blow. If one takes immediate steps, he might avoid disaster. If not, the doctors and specialists have to be called in and they are tough guys.

Those who have lived through inflations, as I have, can read the signs of the times. It is interesting for instance, to note that the people who live on margins, money speculators, stock-brokers, arbitragers and such, are selling dollars and buying gold if they can get any. If they cannot buy gold, they buy Swiss francs or even pounds sterling to protect themselves. That is a bad sign for us and while the so-called experts give alibis for their failure of foresight, those of us who need to record events, must note what is happening. And what is happening is that the dollar's reputation as a hard, strong currency is disappearing.

When Senator Kennedy spoke, during the campaign, about prestige, he failed to deal with the prestige of the dollar. There he had a real argument and one which could be substantiated. Now, he will have to deal with the problem of currency with the full responsibility of the Presidency. Unfortunately, few Americans are currency experts. It is a science which we seem to have missed. The British, Dutch and Swiss are very good at it. Somebody in the Iron Curtain countries seems to be good at it. The Chinese have been exchange experts for centuries. We have long trusted the British to do our thinking on this subject.

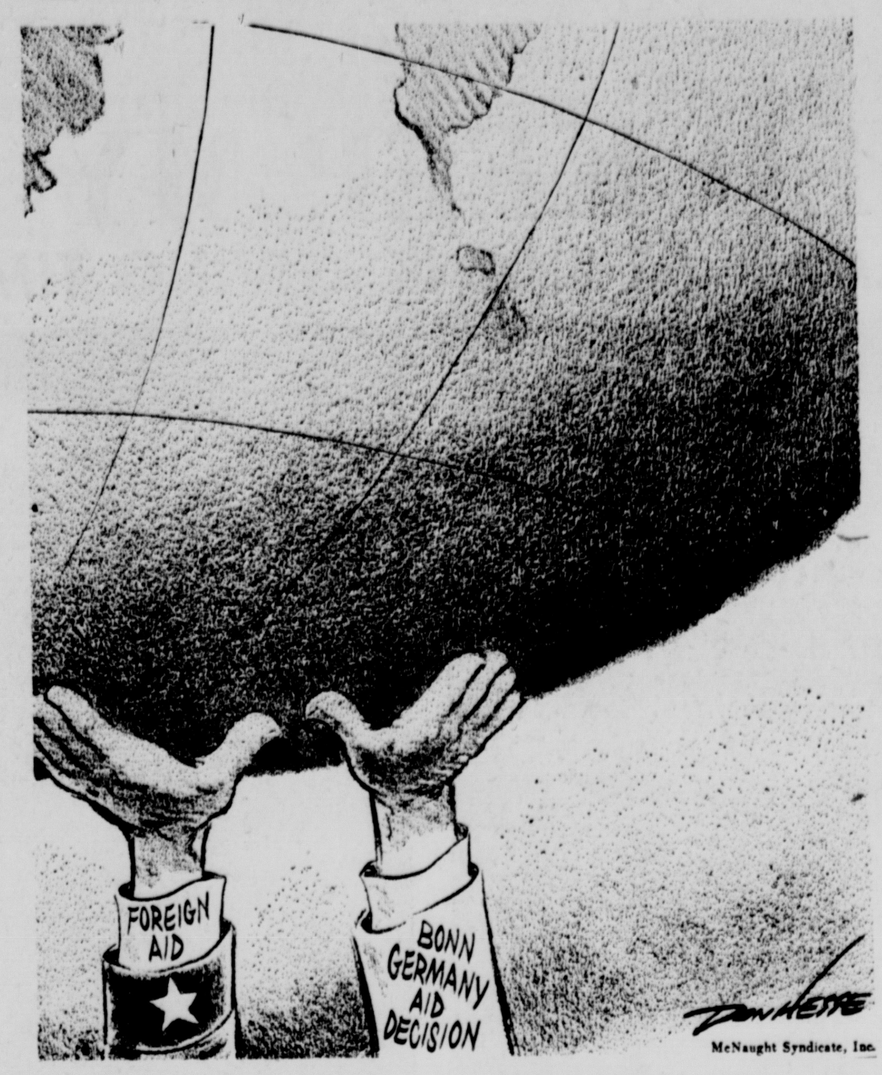
At Last, An Assistant Atlas



Kennedy's 'Mandate' And The Coming Test

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The narrowness of Sen. Kennedy's margin of victory is an important political fact. It has touched off a debate about whether the President-elect really has a mandate to carry out his program. He says, rather firmly, that he has a mandate, but others disagree.

Again, this same slimness of the victory margin has powerfully strengthened the argument for giving a bi-partisan character to the new Administration, especially in the area of defense and foreign policy. Kennedy was leaning this way from the start. But now it is virtually certain that a rather dramatic gesture of bi-partisanship will be made when the Cabinet is chosen.

All the same, the importance of the slim Democratic margin can too easily be exaggerated. If you look at the voting figures, to begin with, you discover that it was a considerable feat to win by any margin at all.

In New York state, a Republican 1956 majority of nearly 1,600,000 was turned into a Democratic majority of 400,000. In Illinois, a Republican 1956 majority of just under one million was successfully overcome. There is no use prolonging the list. The point is that the Republicans had an enormous cushion at the outset. The Democrats consequently had to overturn really unprecedented numbers of votes in almost every state they captured.

These calculations are far less significant, however, than another forgotten fact which will soon loom very large indeed. In brief, when Kennedy enters the White House, he will automatically acquire the keys to the closet where the skeletons are kept.

There are skeletons enough, unhappily, to change the American mood overnight. There is the grim series of U. S. Information Agency reports on this country's true standing and influence in the world. There is the nightmarish Gaither Report on our defense posture; and there are at least three earlier reports which are broadly comparable to the Gaither Report. This defense series started, indeed, with the "Solarium" paper of 1953.

If and when released, in whole or in part, these suppressed documents and many others like them will prove to the country that the national situation has been grossly and persistently misrepresented for years on end. They cannot be challenged as partisan documents, either, since they were prepared by and for the Eisenhower administration.

The simple fact that the Administration then put these documents in the skeleton-closet, without further ado, will have its own considerable impact. The bleak facts contained in the documents will have vastly greater impact. Once the truth emerges from the skeleton-closet, the Kennedy mandate is certain to be more decisive than it is today.

If allowance is made for this vital future development, one can make a fairly accurate computation of how far the Kennedy mandate will extend in all but one of the main policy areas. In the area of foreign and defense policy, to begin with, the mandate will have no serious limitations. The country and the Congress are more likely to want the new President to do too much, than to place obstacles in his way.

In the social welfare area, again, there is every reason to believe that the new President can get the Congress to do what he wants about medical care for the aged, the depressed areas, aid to education, and minimum wages. Though represented as radical, the measures he advocates are far from extreme. With no one in the White House to hold them back, a fair number of middle-of-the-road Republicans from industrial states will go along with Kennedy.

In the area of civil rights, the first question mark is encountered. It is put there by the important role of the South in the Kennedy victory. Yet the Southern Democrats knew what they were getting when they chose Kennedy instead of Nixon. Neither he nor Lyndon Johnson ever spoke out of both sides of their mouths at any time in the campaign.

Furthermore, the biggest needs in the area of civil rights are not legislative needs. The biggest needs are for more vigorous executive action, and for more determined moral leadership in the White House. Hence the question-mark about civil rights is not really grave.

The only grave question-mark is to be found, in fact, in the area of fiscal and tax policy. In this area, unhappily, acutely painful measures may be essential if the U. S. is to pay the bill for regaining the ground we have lost in the area of foreign and defense policy.

When the skeletons in the closet are publicly exhibited, and the whole country knows how much ground has been lost, the clamor to regain the lost ground will be fierce. But will it be fierce enough to secure general consent to the measures needed to pay the bill? That question will prove the sharpest test of Kennedy's leadership.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

RAILROAD "NUISANCE" — Residents of a swank Washington suburb complained recently that a Baltimore & Ohio spur on which trains thunder through their backyards is a community nuisance and should be removed. They indignantly wanted to know why the railroad was routed through their community in the first place.

What they didn't know, or stop to realize, was that the railroad spur has been there for an even 100 years—long before the $30,000 to $100,000 estates ever were built there.

Originally, the line was used to serve Georgetown, the city on the Potomac River that was there before Washington was established. Now, it is a busy thoroughfare that carries many items of freight for the government.

Its manifests include such things as food supplies, and paper for the Army Map Service, steel for the new bridges being built across the river, cement, flour, lumber and coal. And, each year, it carries the huge White House Christmas tree.

Like the mail, these trains will go through.

DULLES' HUMAN SIDE—The late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was a weight watcher, even as you and I. On fishing trips, to "get away from it all," his lunch often consisted of a crust of dried bread, dipped in the water to soften it!

He was also a most excellent husband, since one of his hobbies was washing dishes.

These and other entertaining facts are included in a just-published biography, "John Foster Dulles, Soldier of Peace," by Deane and David Heller.

The book also comments on the wide difference between Dulles' austere "public personality" and his warm, witty "private personality."

Writer Recommends Disneyland To Tired Candidates, Ex-Candidates

By Drew Pearson

DISNEYLAND, Calif. — When President-elect Kennedy wanted to relax from the rigors of the recent election he went to his father's winter home in Palm Beach, Fla. When Vice President Nixon wanted to forget the fatigue of the campaign he went to Miami.

Both are delightful places. But for sheer change I recommend the Mecca of make-believe, Disneyland.

At any rate that's where I came after the campaign to relax with my three eldest grandsons. To tell the truth, it isn't completely relaxing to be kept on your mettle by three energetic youngsters ranging from six to 13. But it is different.

For, there's something about the spookiness of "Mr. Toad's Wild Ride," or flying with Peter Pan over goblins and dragons, or scooting down Mount Matterhorn on the most breathless and scenic roller coaster in three continents, or whipping around a giant tea table in one of the "Mad Hatter's Whirling Teacups" that takes you a long way from the problem of electing a President, the beard of Fidel Castro, or the caprices of Patrice Lumumba in the Congo.

I recommend it as an escape valve for tired candidates, for tired statesmen, or for tired newspapermen. And I can readily understand why I once found my old "friend," Harry Truman, out here, why Premier Khrushchev wanted to come here — though barred by the State Department — and why the Crown Prince of Japan was one of the recent visitors.

Truman Kids Wife

In fact, the State Department, which is supposed to arrange the official visits of foreign dignitaries, now finds itself out in the cold when it comes to scheduling trips to Disneyland. Officially, these presidents, kings and potentates are supposed to ask Wiley Buchanan, head of the striped-pants division of the State Department, otherwise known as protocol, to arrange trips to Disneyland. But a lot of them don't bother any more. They just call up and some out on their own.

It was Mrs. Truman, however, who arranged Harry's trip. He was a little reluctant at first. But when they got out here, it was Mrs. Truman who was reluctant at taking the steep curves and the fast dips of the Matterhorn roller coaster.

"Now you got me here, you chickened out on me," the former President kidded his wife.

However, both are itching for the day when they can give personally conducted tours to their two grandchildren, both still too young for the romance of Disneyland. All this is why there are more adult visitors to Disneyland than children. The ratio is four adults to one child; which shows that all of us are kids at heart. And you can't blame Khrushchev, having been barred from Disneyland by overcautious security officers, for building a "Disneyland" of his own in Moscow.

Backstage Expose

As a reporter of backstage events in Washington, perhaps I should report on what goes on behind-the-scene in Disneyland.

When you sail down the Mississippi River on the stern-wheeler "Mark Twain," or travel up the Nile or the Amazon and see crocodiles and hippos lying in wait for your boat, you would never guess that a few years ago all this was an orange grove. The rivers were scooped out of sand. However, when water was pumped into the rivers, it leaked out about as fast as it takes you to visit Tom Sawyer's Island.

So Disney's engineers brought in several thousand truckloads of clay, lined the river bottom and banks, and now they don't leak so fast. When they leak, however, two deep wells at Disneyland catch the water and pump it back for use all over again. Water is scarce in California. But that's the way Walt Disney gets all those waterfalls that cascade down Mount Matterhorn and the rivers that wind through his wonderland.

When you cruise on one of the eight new atomic submarines which Todd Shipyards built for Disney — simulated, of course — you sail under the North Pole, through the ruins of ancient Atlantis at the bottom of the Atlantic, past shipwrecks with pirates' gold spilled out on the ocean's bottom, with brilliant colored fish and a giant octopus and a shark or two lurking in the background.

It all looks so real that you don't realize that skin divers have to go down twice a year to take out the fish, lug them to the carpenter shop, and touch them up with a new coat of paint. They even touch up the mermaids.

Another thing you don't realize is how the water is so crystal clear, in contrast to the Nile and the Amazon and the Mississippi which are so murky. The answer is that the world's largest filter plant pumps the water of the submarine basin through its cleansing filters four times a day.

Again when you ride through Nature's Wonderland either on muleback or an old-fashioned Western railroad you wonder what makes the rattlesnake strike at you just as you pass, or what makes that bear come up with a fish just as you pass, or makes another bear scratch his rump on that dead tree.

They're all stuffed, of course, yet they seem to perform at just the right time. The animals growl, the birds sing, the coyotes howl, and the mountain lion looks as if he were going to spring down at your train just as you pass. There are even two male elk, their horns locked, fighting it out in the mating season just as realistically as they do in the Rockies every spring.

The answer is electronic tape. It's fed into the animals in such a way as to make them produce the right noises, and even the right facial expressions at the right time.

I shouldn't really report on what goes on backstage in Disneyland. It might spoil the illusion. However, I recommend it to the next political candidate, whether victorious or defeated, who wants to get away from the past.

Cars, Cars, Cars!

By John Crosby

What are we going to do about our cities? When that eminent critic, Nikita Khrushchev, who has the critic's first qualification of being unafraid to blurt out the obvious, looked out on our teeming streets and said: "Cars, cars, cars! Isn't there any place for people?" he put his finger unerringly on our great blind spot of our civic planning, what little of that there is, and on our national obsession. Everything is planned for the automobile, not for the people.

When I was in Keene, New Hampshire, for a lecture, I was commenting on the beauty of the New England town and the lady I was talking to remarked wistfully that it was much more beautiful before they cut down all the trees on main street to provide additional room for parking. "Of course ," she added hastily, I'm not against progress but . . . "

Progress? Where on earth did we get the idea that a traffic jam is progress? In "Goodbye, Ava" Richard Bissell savagely bewails the tearing down of the oldest and most beautiful buildings in town—and God knows there are few enough beautiful buildings in the Midwest—to make parking lots. Again that word progress raises its vicious little head.

In Springfield, Massachusetts, those lovely makers of progress just tore down a good part of the loveliest park in town to make way for a superhighway. Progress.

I was in Indianapolis, Indiana, a year ago, when they were trying an experiment, banning cars from a few streets in the very center of town. The experiment was tried in many cities. The streets were planted with grass. (Actually, they rolled out strips of sod, but it was real grass and felt like it under your feet.) There were little trees in tubs but they gave you the idea and feel of a street with bigger trees, trees with shade and deep foliage.

Well, of course, it's not progress but, Lord, it's great. For one thing, the sense of hurry, or urgency, disappears. You find yourself strolling, not hurrying. You stroll down the middle of the street in the sunshine, not in the shade of the buildings. (Under progress, the cars get all the sunshine.) Just for a moment, I felt with absolute certainty that I was looking into the future city. (Indianapolis decided that the mall was bad for business and abandoned it.)

I'm willing to bet a million dollars that a hundred years after I'm dead (my successors will be only too happy to pay off if I'm wrong) that the central streets of all big American cities will have grass rather than cars because the traffic situation is rapidly becoming intolerable. Of course, the amount of discomfort and delay that an American, especially a New Yorker, can put up with, without complaining or even noticing, is utterly astounding. Still, there are limits—at least I think there are—to man's patience.

Where, you ask, is the snapping point of mankind's patience? Well—just as a guess—I think that the day a New Yorker starts out from Washington Square by taxicab on a Monday and doesn't get to Grand Central until the following Thursday. "I've missed my train," he'll say. "Something is clearly wrong." But it may take a hundred years before he looks up from his newspaper.

In the few cases where citizens have looked up from their newspapers, the terrible ravages of the automobile have been halted. In Long Meadow, Massachusetts, for example, the geniuses who design state highways were going to run a superhighway through the heart of town, obliterating the two lovely village greens. The citizenry met and defeated the advance of the automobile by a vote of 100 to zero. So, you see, these precious things can be preserved from the march of progress. But it takes a little vigilance.

Above all, it is going to require some re-examination of our values. Do we really need parking lots more than we need parks for our children to play? Cutting down a 100-year-old elm to provide a spot to park the Mercury, isn't this idiocy? Of course, it is. Actually, one of the more hideous sights in the modern world (which has many of them) is a parking lot and I think, if we have to have the terrible things (and I suppose we do), they ought to be required to plant a little grove of trees to mask them from view, a sort of penitential offering to replace all the trees sacrificed to the automobile.

Actually, future generations of city dwellers may bless the automobile for providing the only spaces left in the city. After we get rid of the cars (and don't worry — we will) Fifth Avenue, with a double row of plane trees down the middle of it, planted to grass and drenched in sunshine, will provide a glorious spot to take the children, to gossip, to shop, to sit on the park benches and knit, or to play checkers. There's nothing the matter with a superhighway right through the middle of town provided they plant grass on it and prohibit automobiles from using it.

Planning Hospitals For Long-Term Needs

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Hospitals must be built with the future in mind. All too often, new institutions are obsolete before their doors are opened.

Our hospital planners realize that fewer beds are needed for pneumonia, tuberculosis, ear infections, and venereal and contagious diseases. Conversely, more allowances must be made for treating geriatric, nervous, and psychiatric patients.

Hospital care is expensive for various reasons. We offer the same care to the desperately ill as to those hospitalized for observation. The man or woman with uremia, bleeding peptic ulcer, heart failure, or a recent hip fracture may require all the facilities of the hospital, including private nurses. The same can be said of persons who have just undergone a serious operation.

But for every person who needs this super-care there are four or five who have recovered but remain in the hospital to get stronger or waiting for an incision to heal. They do not need this extra care even though they pay for it.

The hospital of the future will have several different units geared to the needs of the patient. A few floors or one wing will be reserved for serious cases, whereas the rest of the hospital or an adjoining building will offer hotel or convalescent home service at a lower rate. These individuals eat in a dining room, make their own bed, and bathe themselves.

The laboratory, X-ray, and physical therapy departments are available as well as other emergency facilities that might be needed. Lavish technical equipment is not needed for the chronically ill. The nearer their facilities approximate those of the home, the better. They can get along with small bed-sitting rooms connected to open wards and day rooms.

PAIN FROM SHINGLES

M. K. writes: Why, in this scientific age, has nothing been found to relieve or cure pain from herpes zoster of the face and ear? It is so awful you almost feel like I won't say what.

REPLY

Various methods of relief have been devised. But pain from shingles in this area is stubborn, particularly if the lesions have healed but neuralgia persists. Surgery may be advised when pain fails to subside.

APPETITE AND AGE

H. V. L. writes: Is decrease in appetite natural in old age?

REPLY

Yes and no. Many elderly persons have excellent appetites, whereas others do not. Much depends upon their health and whether they are happy and content.

ALLERGY TO EGGS

F. B. writes: Could eggs cause bronchial spasm?

REPLY

Yes, in a person allergic to eggs. Tests can be made to determine this possibility.

FAST PULSE

P. L. writes: What are the chances of a safe pregnancy and a normal baby if the expectant mother has an exceptionally fast heart beat?

REPLY

Very good, provided the fast pulse is of emotional origin.

FLUSHED LEGS

M. G. writes: What would cause hot flashes in the legs of a young lady?

REPLY

Flushing, blushing, or mottling of the lower extremities may be caused by a variety of circulatory disorders. These disturbances are not too well understood but treatment is unnecessary because they produce so little discomfort or disability.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A titled journalist in Britain sought an interview with W. S. Gilbert after "The Mikado" had become the rage of London. Gilbert replied that he now asked a fee of twenty pounds for each interview granted.

The journalist countered with this note: "The Comtesse de Bremont presents her compliments to Mr. Gilbert and in reply to his demand for twenty pounds before she may interview him, begs to say that she will content herself with writing his obituary for nothing."

"Thanks to the alertness of sportscasters," notes Bill Vaughan, "and the miracle of modern communication, it is often possible to know the score of every major football game in the country — except the one to which you are listening."

What If They'd Had TV Then?

Thursday Morning, November 17, 1960

Who would have won other Presidential elections had there been a TV "great debate" of the sort which many believe gave John Kennedy his big breakthrough to the Presidency?

A group of high ranking Republicans and Democrats at a Washington dinner table a few nights after the election chewed that question over, according to a Washington correspondent. Here was their consensus, which the reader might check against his own opinions:

Adlai Stevenson would have won the debates against Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 because he is quicker and uses the English language with more ease. Whether that would have turned many voters against the popular war hero is another question.

Thomas E. Dewey, a master of the debate technique, would have cut Harry S. Truman to pieces. But Dewey would have been lucky to break even with Franklin Roosevelt in 1944. FDR would have crushed his 1932 and 1936 opponents, Hoover and Landon, and probably would have bested his 1940 foe, Wendell Willkie.

In fact, if this group's opinion is any indicator, the Democrats would have benefited all along. The Washington diners thought Al Smith would have looked better on TV in 1928 than Hoover; that John W. Davis would have pulverized "Silent Cal" Coolidge in 1924, and that James M. Cox would have been the TV victor over Warren G. Harding in 1920.

History might have been changed as radically in the past by TV debates as many think it has been this year.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Dollar

The first order of business after the Election is the dollar. The Eisenhower Administration has not understood the nature of money and got caught in a very tight squeeze when the London gold market ran gold up to $41 an ounce. The legal rate for the United States is $35 an ounce and therefore the rise on the London market meant that there was a sudden purchase of gold as against American dollars. This rise could have readily, had it continued, reduced the value of the dollar tragically.

The question still to be answered is, who was buying this gold? The first assumption was that Soviet Russia was manipulating the gold market to force a devaluation of the dollar—an act which can destroy the economy of the United States. But there is the kind of hearsay which a knowledgeable person would believe as true, to accept it that American firms and American banks were buying gold by international telephone to London, Zurich and Amsterdam as a runaway from the dollar.

It is true that an individual is justified in protecting himself from economic collapse but it is fairly close to a betrayal of the country to take any step at the present time to damage the dollar which is suffering from bad management.

The campaign is over and there is no value in covering up the danger that now exists to our currency. Earmarked gold reserves are not to be counted as belonging to the United States unless the Treasury plans to put an embargo on gold; otherwise, the only gold reserves are what remains to this country after the earmarked gold is deducted. Therefore, the peril is that if measured realistically and conservatively, it is possible that we actually have no gold reserves left. The British have a reserve of more than $3,000,000,000; the West Germans about $6,000,000,000; the Russians $9,800,000,000 If the United States cannot maintain a gold reserve sufficient to uphold the dollar as a hard currency, all Western currencies can collapse. This was one of the reasons why the British came to our rescue between October 20-27. They could not let the American dollar go to pot.

This is the Number One question that faces our government now. It is not sound to wait until January 20 to do something about gold. Something needs to be done now; otherwise, it will not be possible to avoid devaluing the dollar because the dollar will be without even the 25 per cent gold protection guaranteed by law.

Politicians, as a matter of practice, wait until a crisis faces them and then they act. If they succeed in pulling their country out of a bad situation, they are heroes; if they fail, they are cursed. There is not too much time left to play with the dollar. The October 20th rise in gold was a signal. It was like a small coronary thrombosis which often precedes a big blow. If one takes immediate steps, he might avoid disaster. If not, the doctors and specialists have to be called in and they are tough guys.

Those who have lived through inflations, as I have, can read the signs of the times. It is interesting for instance, to note that the people who live on margins, money speculators, stock-brokers, arbitragers and such, are selling dollars and buying gold if they can get any. If they cannot buy gold, they buy Swiss francs or even pounds sterling to protect themselves. That is a bad sign for us and while the so-called experts give alibis for their failure of foresight, those of us who need to record events, must note what is happening. And what is happening is that the dollar's reputation as a hard, strong currency is disappearing.

When Senator Kennedy spoke, during the campaign, about prestige, he failed to deal with the prestige of the dollar. There he had a real argument and one which could be substantiated. Now, he will have to deal with the problem of currency with the full responsibility of the Presidency. Unfortunately, few Americans are currency experts. It is a science which we seem to have missed. The British, Dutch and Swiss are very good at it. Somebody in the Iron Curtain countries seems to be good at it. The Chinese have been exchange experts for centuries. We have long trusted the British to do our thinking on this subject

Writer Recommends Disneyland To Tired Candidates, Ex-Candidates

By Drew Pearson

DISNEYLAND, Calif. — When President-elect Kennedy wanted to relax from the rigors of the recent election he went to his father's winter home in Palm Beach, Fla. When Vice President Nixon wanted to forget the fatigue of the campaign he went to Miami.

Both are delightful places. But for sheer change I recommend the Mecca of make-believe, Disneyland.

At any rate that's where I came after the campaign to relax with my three eldest grandsons. To tell the truth, it isn't completely relaxing to be kept on your mettle by three energetic youngsters ranging from six to 13. But it is different.

For, there's something about the spookiness of "Mr. Toad's Wild Ride," or flying with Peter Pan over goblins and dragons, or scooting down Mount Matterhorn on the most breathless and scenic roller coaster in three continents, or whipping around a giant tea table in one of the "Mad Hatter's Whirling Teacups" that takes you a long way from the problem of electing a President, the beard of Fidel Castro, or the caprices of Patrice Lumumba in the Congo.

I recommend it as an escape valve for tired candidates, for tired statesmen, or for tired newspapermen. And I can readily understand why I once found my old "friend," Harry Truman, out here, why Premier Khrushchev wanted to come here — though barred by the State Department — and why the Crown Prince of Japan was one of the recent visitors.

Truman Kids Wife

In fact, the State Department, which is supposed to arrange the official visits of foreign dignitaries, now finds itself out in the cold when it comes to scheduling trips to Disneyland. Officially, these presidents, kings and potentates are supposed to ask Wiley Buchanan, head of the striped-pants division of the State Department, otherwise known as protocol, to arrange trips to Disneyland. But a lot of them don't bother any more. They just call up and some out on their own.

It was Mrs. Truman, however, who arranged Harry's trip. He was a little reluctant at first. But when they got out here, it was Mrs. Truman who was reluctant at taking the steep curves and the fast dips of the Matterhorn roller coaster.

"Now you got me here, you chickened out on me," the former President kidded his wife.

However, both are itching for the day when they can give personally conducted tours to their two grandchildren, both still too young for the romance of Disneyland. All this is why there are more adult visitors to Disneyland than children. The ratio is four adults to one child; which shows that all of us are kids at heart. And you can't blame Khrushchev, having been barred from Disneyland by overcautious security officers, for building a "Disneyland" of his own in Moscow.

Backstage Expose

As a reporter of backstage events in Washington, perhaps I should report on what goes on behind-the-scene in Disneyland.

When you sail down the Mississippi River on the stern-wheeler "Mark Twain," or travel up the Nile or the Amazon and see crocodiles and hippos lying in wait for your boat, you would never guess that a few years ago all this was an orange grove. The rivers were scooped out of sand. However, when water was pumped into the rivers, it leaked out about as fast as it takes you to visit Tom Sawyer's Island.

So Disney's engineers brought in several thousand truckloads of clay, lined the river bottom and banks, and now they don't leak so fast. When they leak, however, two deep wells at Disneyland catch the water and pump it back for use all over again. Water is scarce in California. But that's the way Walt Disney gets all those waterfalls that cascade down Mount Matterhorn and the rivers that wind through his wonderland.

When you cruise on one of the eight new atomic submarines which Todd Shipyards built for Disney — simulated, of course — you sail under the North Pole, through the ruins of ancient Atlantis at the bottom of the Atlantic, past shipwrecks with pirates' gold spilled out on the ocean's bottom, with brilliant colored fish and a giant octopus and a shark or two lurking in the background.

It all looks so real that you don't realize that skin divers have to go down twice a year to take out the fish, lug them to the carpenter shop, and touch them up with a new coat of paint. They even touch up the mermaids.

Another thing you don't realize is how the water is so crystal clear, in contrast to the Nile and the Amazon and the Mississippi which are so murky. The answer is that the world's largest filter plant pumps the water of the submarine basin through its cleansing filters four times a day.

Again when you ride through Nature's Wonderland either on muleback or an old-fashioned Western railroad you wonder what makes the rattlesnake strike at you just as you pass, or what makes that bear come up with a fish just as you pass, or makes another bear scratch his rump on that dead tree.

They're all stuffed, of course, yet they seem to perform at just the right time. The animals growl, the birds sing, the coyotes howl, and the mountain lion looks as if he were going to spring down at your train just as you pass. There are even two male elk, their horns locked, fighting it out in the mating season just as realistically as they do in the Rockies every spring.

The answer is electronic tape. It's fed into the animals in such a way as to make them produce the right noises, and even the right facial expressions at the right time.

I shouldn't really report on what goes on backstage in Disneyland. It might spoil the illusion. However, I recommend it to the next political candidate, whether victorious or defeated, who wants to get away from the past.

Kennedy's 'Mandate' And The Coming Test

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The narrowness of Sen. Kennedy's margin of victory is an important political fact. It has touched off a debate about whether the President-elect really has a mandate to carry out his program. He says, rather firmly, that he has a mandate, but others disagree.

Again, this same slimness of the victory margin has powerfully strengthened the argument for giving a bi-partisan character to the new Administration, especially in the area of defense and foreign policy. Kennedy was leaning this way from the start. But now it is virtually certain that a rather dramatic gesture of bi-partisanship will be made when the Cabinet is chosen.

All the same, the importance of the slim Democratic margin can too easily be exaggerated. If you look at the voting figures, to begin with, you discover that it was a considerable feat to win by any margin at all.

In New York state, a Republican 1956 majority of nearly 1,600,000 was turned into a Democratic majority of 400,000. In Illinois, a Republican 1956 majority of just under one million was successfully overcome. There is no use prolonging the list. The point is that the Republicans had an enormous cushion at the outset. The Democrats consequently had to overturn really unprecedented numbers of votes in almost every state they captured.

These calculations are far less significant, however, than another forgotten fact which will soon loom very large indeed. In brief, when Kennedy enters the White House, he will automatically acquire the keys to the closet where the skeletons are kept.

There are skeletons enough, unhappily, to change the American mood overnight. There is the grim series of U. S. Information Agency reports on this country's true standing and influence in the world. There is the nightmarish Gaither Report on our defense posture; and there are at least three earlier reports which are broadly comparable to the Gaither Report. This defense series started, indeed, with the "Solarium" paper of 1953.

If and when released, in whole or in part, these suppressed documents and many others like them will prove to the country that the national situation has been grossly and persistently misrepresented for years on end. They cannot be challenged as partisan documents, either, since they were prepared by and for the Eisenhower administration.

The simple fact that the Administration then put these documents in the skeleton-closet, without further ado, will have its own considerable impact. The bleak facts contained in the documents will have vastly greater impact. Once the truth emerges from the skeleton-closet, the Kennedy mandate is certain to be more decisive than it is today.

If allowance is made for this vital future development, one can make a fairly accurate computation of how far the Kennedy mandate will extend in all but one of the main policy areas. In the area of foreign and defense policy, to begin with, the mandate will have no serious limitations. The country and the Congress are more likely to want the new President to do too much, than to place obstacles in his way.

In the social welfare area, again, there is every reason to believe that the new President can get the Congress to do what he wants about medical care for the aged, the depressed areas, aid to education, and minimum wages. Though represented as radical, the measures he advocates are far from extreme. With no one in the White House to hold them back, a fair number of middle-of-the-road Republicans from industrial states will go along with Kennedy.

In the area of civil rights, the first question mark is encountered. It is put there by the important role of the South in the Kennedy victory. Yet the Southern Democrats knew what they were getting when they chose Kennedy instead of Nixon. Neither he nor Lyndon Johnson ever spoke out of both sides of their mouths at any time in the campaign.

Furthermore, the biggest needs in the area of civil rights are not legislative needs. The biggest needs are for more vigorous executive action, and for more determined moral leadership in the White House. Hence the question-mark about civil rights is not really grave.

The only grave question-mark is to be found, in fact, in the area of fiscal and tax policy. In this area, unhappily, acutely painful measures may be essential if the U. S. is to pay the bill for regaining the ground we have lost in the area of foreign and defense policy.

When the skeletons in the closet are publicly exhibited, and the whole country knows how much ground has been lost, the clamor to regain the lost ground will be fierce. But will it be fierce enough to secure general consent to the measures needed to pay the bill? That question will prove the sharpest test of Kennedy's leadership.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

RAILROAD "NUISANCE" — Residents of a swank Washington suburb complained recently that a Baltimore & Ohio spur on which trains thunder through their backyards is a community nuisance and should be removed. They indignantly wanted to know why the railroad was routed through their community in the first place.

What they didn't know, or stop to realize, was that the railroad spur has been there for an even 100 years—long before the $30,000 to $100,000 estates ever were built there.

Originally, the line was used to serve Georgetown, the city on the Potomac River that was there before Washington was established. Now, it is a busy thoroughfare that carries many items of freight for the government.

Its manifests include such things as food supplies, and paper for the Army Map Service, steel for the new bridges being built across the river, cement, flour, lumber and coal. And, each year, it carries the huge White House Christmas tree.

Like the mail, these trains will go through.

DULLES' HUMAN SIDE—The late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was a weight watcher, even as you and I. On fishing trips, to "get away from it all," his lunch often consisted of a crust of dried bread, dipped in the water to soften it!

He was also a most excellent husband, since one of his hobbies was washing dishes.

These and other entertaining facts are included in a just-published biography, "John Foster Dulles, Soldier of Peace," by Deane and David Heller.

The book also comments on the wide difference between Dulles' austere "public personality" and his warm, witty "private personality."

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Hospitals must be built with the future in mind. All too often, new institutions are obsolete before their doors are opened.

Our hospital planners realize that fewer beds are needed for pneumonia, tuberculosis, ear infections, and venereal and contagious diseases. Conversely, more allowances must be made for treating geriatric, nervous, and psychiatric patients.

Hospital care is expensive for various reasons. We offer the same care to the desperately ill as to those hospitalized for observation. The man or woman with uremia, bleeding peptic ulcer, heart failure, or a recent hip fracture may require all the facilities of the hospital, including private nurses. The same can be said of persons who have just undergone a serious operation.

But for every person who needs this super-care there are four or five who have recovered but remain in the hospital to get stronger or waiting for an incision to heal. They do not need this extra care even though they pay for it.

The hospital of the future will have several different units geared to the needs of the patient. A few floors or one wing will be reserved for serious cases, whereas the rest of the hospital or an adjoining building will offer hotel or convalescent home service at a lower rate. These individuals eat in a dining room, make their own bed, and bathe themselves.

The laboratory, X-ray, and physical therapy departments are available as well as other emergency facilities that might be needed. Lavish technical equipment is not needed for the chronically ill. The nearer their facilities approximate those of the home, the better. They can get along with small bed-sitting rooms connected to open wards and day rooms.

PAIN FROM SHINGLES

M. K. writes: Why, in this scientific age, has nothing been found to relieve or cure pain from herpes zoster of the face and ear? It is so awful you almost feel like I won't say what.

REPLY

Various methods of relief have been devised. But pain from shingles in this area is stubborn, particularly if the lesions have healed but neuralgia persists. Surgery may be advised when pain fails to subside.

APPETITE AND AGE

H. V. L. writes: Is decrease in appetite natural in old age?

REPLY

Yes and no. Many elderly persons have excellent appetites, whereas others do not. Much depends upon their health and whether they are happy and content.

ALLERGY TO EGGS

F. B. writes: Could eggs cause bronchial spasm?

REPLY

Yes, in a person allergic to eggs. Tests can be made to determine this possibility.

FAST PULSE

P. L. writes: What are the chances of a safe pregnancy and a normal baby if the expectant mother has an exceptionally fast heart beat?

REPLY

Very good, provided the fast pulse is of emotional origin.

FLUSHED LEGS

M. G. writes: What would cause hot flashes in the legs of a young lady?

REPLY

Flushing, blushing, or mottling of the lower extremities may be caused by a variety of circulatory disorders. These disturbances are not too well understood but treatment is unnecessary because they produce so little discomfort or disability.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A titled journalist in Britain sought an interview with W. S. Gilbert after "The Mikado" had become the rage of London. Gilbert replied that he now asked a fee of twenty pounds for each interview granted.

The journalist countered with this note: "The Comtesse de Bremont presents her compliments to Mr. Gilbert and in reply to his demand for twenty pounds before she may interview him, begs to say that she will content herself with writing his obituary for nothing."

"Thanks to the alertness of sportscasters," notes Bill Vaughan, "and the miracle of modern communication, it is often possible to know the score of every major football game in the country — except the one to which you are listening."

A GOBBLER'S PLAINT AT THANKSGIVING TIME

"Don't look so glum! We're still alive, aren't we?"

"Who said 'be thankful' — the idiot!"

"Sometimes I think I'd rather be a buzzard"

"I've been patted, I've been petted
Throughout the blooming year,
But now I'm most unhappy
For my doom is near!

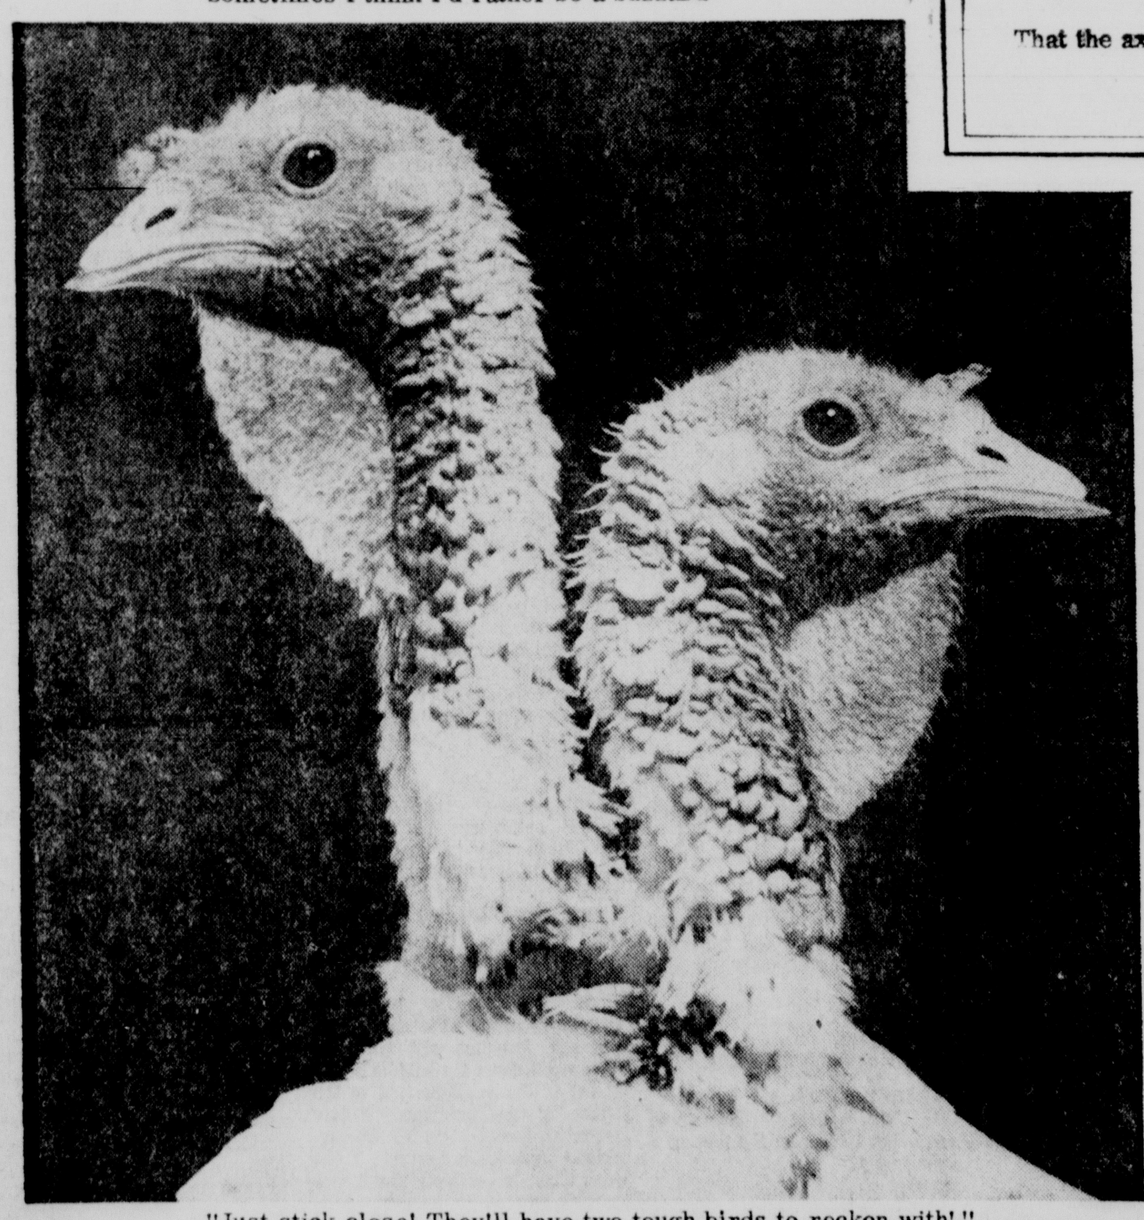
Oh, I've prated and I've strutted
On the farm I've loved so dear,
But what's the use of strutting
When my doom is near!

All day I've heard a grinding
Through the barnyard door so near,
I know the sound has meaning,
Yes, my doom is near!

Thanksgiving's nice for many folks,
But mine is bleak and drear,
I've got the weirdest feeling
That the axe is near!"

A. J. Ezickson

"You can blame the Pilgrim Fathers for all this!"



"Just stick close! They'll have two tough birds to reckon with!"

"Let's make a run for it when the farmer's not looking!"

Evangelist Urges Return To Primitive Christianity

MIDLOTHIAN — "More necessary than intercontinental ballistic missiles, atomic powered ships, and modern peace talks, is a return to the paramount principles of primitive Christianity and a shaking off of the spiritual lethargy that has gripped Americans."

Special music will be played by Mrs. Owens at the organ, as well as by the church orchestra.

The public is invited to attend tonight and every night this week at 7:30 p.m. at the Trinity Assembly of God Church, two miles south of Frostburg. Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son, 23, quit school at 17 despite my protests. We bought him a car shortly after. He had three accidents and several speeding tickets almost immediately. He also wrecked the car. My wife bought him a new one out of our savings without telling me.

Three years ago he said his girl was pregnant. We had never met her but we paid for their wedding, furnished their apartment and paid the doctor bills.

After the baby came his wife started divorce proceedings. We paid for the lawyers. She found she was pregnant again so they made up. After the second baby came she sued for divorce again and went through with it.

I refuse to have this girl in our home but my wife arranges secret meetings behind my back. She says it's our son's house, too, and he can invite anyone over he wants.

Can anything be done to improve this horrible mess? —D. D.

DEAR D. D.: This 23-year-old vegetable is the product of parents who could never agree on what to do with their son—so he did as he darned well pleased.

You're trying to place all the blame on his mother but part is yours. You should never have permitted the boy to keep a car that was bought behind your back. It should have been returned or sold at once. This is only ONE example of your spinelessness.

At this point there's little you can do except LET THE BOY ALONE. Insist he pay his own bills and stand on his own two feet. The only help you should give him is to pay his psychiatrist—if he'll go.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have worshipped at the shrine of your profound wisdom for many a year—always in agreement with your flawless human philosophy. But you disappointed me with your advice to "Top Banana." She was the woman whose athletic prowess excelled that of her fiance. Your final sentence was, "How important is it to win the game if you lose the guy?"

Tsk tsk, Ann Landers—how important is it to win a guy who can't lose a game? —LONG SUFFERING TOP BANANA

DEAR LONG SUFFERING: Touche!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have lost the hearing in one ear completely. I hear very well with my one good ear, if a person speaks clearly and not too fast.

My doctor tells me that a hearing aid will not help my deaf ear, and my good ear doesn't need it. So, I do as well as I can without mechanical help.

My friends all know about my problem so they cooperate and I can hear and understand everything they say. But my husband talks fast on purpose, in a monotone, without hesitating between sentences. He changes subjects rapidly because he knows it makes me mad.

When I ask him to slow up or repeat he says, "You hear what you WANT to hear."

He is making my life miserable. What shall I do?

—ONE GOOD EAR

DEAR ONE GOOD EAR: A man who would exploit a physical disability to irritate his wife is downright mean. Maybe he's getting even with you for something. A marriage counselor or a clergyman should mediate this cold war.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FEELING INFERIOR: Sorry, Toots, those salves and lotions are a fake. Save your money and develop your personality instead.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Minor Political Crimes Fill Red German Jails

By WELLINGTON LONG

BONN (UPI)—Thirteen thousand political prisoners are in East German jails for crimes that wouldn't even rate a fine in a Western state, West German officials report.

Their "crimes," All-German Affairs Minister Ernst Lemmer said range from threatening to close a business house because it was losing money to refusing to join a Communist farm collective.

"Whoever dares to publicly criticize the state (in East Germany)," Lemmer declared, "goes to jail."

"Just one example of unnumbered cases," Lemmer continued, "is that of a barber shop owner in Jueterbog who said during a discussion that if prices didn't change he would have to close his shop. He was sentenced by a court in Potsdam to four months in jail for 'attempting to pressure the government in an effort to attain egoistic goals.' His license to operate a barber shop also was withdrawn."

According to Socialist opposition party documents, upon arrival at a jail a political prisoner's hair is cut to within one inch of his skull, he is issued normal prison clothing, given a number and placed in solitary confinement for several weeks.

Thereafter, the prisoner may work under guard in a factory, mine or construction job. The bookkeeping for this work is fancy, and indicates the prisoner earns a basic wage of 188 marks ($45) a month. But after deductions, the prisoner has left only 15 marks ($3.60).

If he is on his good behavior, he is permitted to spend the money in a special commissary, to supplement regular rations, which the Socialists described as mainly bread and soup, with a couple of slivers of sausage twice a week and boiled potatoes on Sunday.

As an inducement, prisoners are promised their sentences will be reduced by one day for each two days they work—on condition they overfulfill their "work norms" by 141 per cent.

"But the norms are so high that only an insignificant percentage of the prisoners are physically able to fulfill them, much less exceed them," the Socialists said.

The Lutheran church weekly Sonntagsblatt recounted recently the experience of a woman who spent five months in a Communist East German jail. The women, she said, slept in their underclothing and, as cells were overcrowded, many bedded in dirty blankets on the cement floors. Once every fortnight, they were allowed to shower.

Many of the prisoners were sentenced for attempting to flee to West Germany.

Thereon hangs one of the best bits of gallows humor ex-prisoners have reported.

The tale has it that a government man from East Berlin inspecting an insane asylum asked why a certain morose party had been certified.

"He tried to flee East Germany," was the reply.

"But that doesn't make him crazy," the inspector murmured.

"But this one," came the answer, "tried to escape to the Soviet Union."

Who's Khrushchev?

OSLO, Norway (AP)—The Sociological Research Institute says a survey of 2,000 Norwegians showed 20 per cent never heard of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners)

HOLLYWOOD—At Jimmy McHugh's birthday party last summer Broadway producer David Merrick (he has just SEVEN hits current in New York) met Anna Maria Alberghetti, listened to her sing, and told her: "I'm going to have something important for you in a Broadway show."

Now Louella Parsons is back from New York with the news that Merricks' words were not just an idle compliment. Merrick has signed Anna Maria for "Carnival," the stage version of "Lili" which was such a screen smash with Leslie Caron. Since everything Merrick touches turns into a hit—what a break for the Italian songbird.

Miss L.O.P. adds, "The show doesnt' start until April—so Anna Maria will try to keep her date with Joseph Levine to co-star with Donald O'Connor in 'Aladdin'."

In your league and mine an offer of $2,000,000 against 20 per cent of the gross is a lot of money. It was made over the weekend by Ray Stark to William Paley for the screen rights to "My Fair Lady." Bets are it will be turned down. How much longer "My Fair Lady" will be refused for the screen poses an interesting problem. Even the greatest of musicals can suffer from over-exposure of publicity and the constant playing of a popular score. Witness "South Pacific" which wasn't the overwhelming success expected as a picture in this country (Europe was different) because the public was over-familiar with the music and book.

Leave it to Rex Harrison to be frank about why he is turning down another Broadway musical. Recalling that he might well have run in "My Fair Lady" the rest of his theatrical life, Harrison said, on refusing the musical version of "Adventures of Sherlock Homes":

"Im' not a young man and figure I have only about 15 years left on the stage. Another musical hit—and this is sure to be with S. M. Behrman's book and Richard Rodgers' score, would take about three years—and thats' a big chunk out of my remaining career."

Still the financial headaches pile up for singer Helen O'Connell and they are not expected to be alleviated when the will of Tom Chamles, her late husband, is filed this month.

Despite the success of some of his books, particularly "Go Naked in the World" which became a movie starring Gina Lollobrigida, Chamles' estate is not expected to cover his debts. Helen, now singing in the lounge of the Stardust Hotel in Las Vegas, is winning much respect by saying she will not file for bankruptcy but will try to pay off the obligations. It's a gallant stand by a lady with three daughters to support.

Arthur Lake, the popular Dagwood of "Blondie" over 12 years of radio and TV exposure, dropped by the office and handed us some laughs about his new TV venture, "Jimmy and Me." Along with Irving Cummings Jr. and Ray Berwick, Arthur is producing this comedy series about a boy and his dog—and the dog talks! "We looked around for an actor to be the voice of the dog — when suddenly I thought of myself. As one of the producers," laughed Arthur, "I gave myself the job." The pooch, you may be interested to know, cost the company $1.50 and hails from the city pound.

Sue and Alan Ladd eat Thanksgiving dinner with the Bill Bendixes in New York, then sail the next day on the United States for Rome where Alan will star in "Orazio" for Lux-Tiberius Films. Before they left Hollywood Sue called to say that the spectacle has a four months shooting schedule, six weeks of which will be on location in Yugoslavia. "This means all our holiday plans for Christmas in Palm Springs with our family and friends is off," she said a little wistfully. However, 12-year-old David and debutante Alana plan to fly to Rome for Christmas.

EUB Young People To Hold Rally Here

The annual fall rally of the Evangelical United Brethren Young People of the Keyser-Cumberland District will be Saturday from 3 to 8:30 p. m. at First EUB Church here. Approximately 150 are expected to attend the rally.

The program and workshop will be conducted by officers and counselors of the Virginia Conference. Officers are Rev. Thomas Coffman, youth director; Edward Henry, president; Edward Grove, vice president; Joyce Fraley, secretary, and Rev. D. A. Frazier, treasurer.

Chairmen include Sandra Lauffer, commission on christian faith; Carol Jean Swain, christian outreach; Joseph Flory, christian witness; Patricia McDaniel, christian fellowship, and Faye Farris, christian citizenship.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Miller, host pastor, said the Young People unit in the district will participate in the program. Andra Getz, of the host Young People, will sing "Indian Love Call." Sharon Goss of the Youth Fellowship of First Church has been named "Indian Princess" for the program.

Registration will be conducted by Nancy Shuman, and supper tickets will be handled by Andra Getz, Judy Murphy and Sharon Getz. An indoor campfire scene will be arranged by Roger Nesbitt and Ronald Godlove, and Judy Murphy will be in charge of music.

Signs for workshop rooms are being prepared by Gary Cook, and supper tickets are being prepared by Michael Cook.

The welcoming address will be made by Ronald Godlove, local YF president, who also will invite th. representatives to attend a skating party here December 1.

Mrs. Paul Getz, director of Youth Fellowship at First Church, said the Virginia Conference chairman will present reports on youth work from the National Youth Fellowship convention held at Indianapolis.

The supper, which will be served at 5:30 p. m., will be under direction of the church activities committee of First Church, of which Mrs. J. H. Sommerkamp is chairman.

Magazine Tells How To Keep Christ In Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What can an ordinary American family do to "Keep Christ in Christmas?"

Here are eight simple practical suggestions from the Methodist magazine Together:

—Attend the services in your church.

—Give gifts to those outside your circle of family and to friends who cannot repay you in kind. Break the habit of gift swapping.

—Write a note of appreciation to someone who, during the year, did some outstanding public work in an unselfish manner, or whose words or deeds were an inspiration to you. Written words are especially appreciated.

—Phone or call on some lonely person and wish him a Merry Christmas. You may be his only caller the whole season.

—Send a cash gift through a church or charitable channel to needy people overseas. You will be helping people who will never know their benefactor.

—Invite someone to eat Christmas dinner with you—a foreign student, perhaps, who cannot repay you in kind.

—Provide your minister with a cash gift for someone in need, specifying that he not reveal your name.

—Get down on your knees and thank God that you are living in a land so blessed with riches that it is possible for you to be on the giving instead of the receiving end.

Doctor's Prescription For One Patient Only — Not For Just Anybody!

You could buy a prescribed drug over tre counter more cheaply if the doctor would only tell you the name of it. In general, drugs of greatest potency are restricted to prescription sales for the protection of patient and public against misuse. Yet many valuable drugs can be bought over the counter and a physician often does tell a physician to do so. A prescribed drug, however, regardless of ingredients, is importantly different from drugs for the general public .The physician assumes professional responsibility when he signs a prescription. He gives important "how to take" directions, specifies exact dosage and combinations of ingredients for ONE PARTICULAR PATIENT, not for just anybody. The pharmacist puts directions on the label and assumes responsibility that the medicine is exactly what the doctor ordered and trat it can be safely taken in the dosage specified. A prescription includes important professional services in addition to the drug, all of which are designed to protect the patient.

Nevertheless, when you have your prescription filled at Walsh-McCagh, you don't pay anything extra for these services in most cases. Unless there is something extra added to your prescription, the price is the same at Walsh-McCagh whether you ask for the drug by name or bring in a prescription for it. We invite you to test us and see. This is just one more reason why you'll find Wash-McCagh a friendly place to do business and why we maintain our position as Maryland's Leading Prescription Store.

"Whoever dares to publicly criticize the state (in East Germany)," Lemmer declared, "goes to jail."

"Just one example of unnumbered cases," Lemmer continued, "is that of a barber shop owner in Jueterbog who said during a discussion that if prices didn't change he would have to close his shop. He was sentenced by a court in Potsdam to four months in jail for 'attempting to pressure the government in an effort to attain egoistic goals.' His license to operate a barber shop also was withdrawn."

According to Socialist opposition party documents, upon arrival at a jail a political prisoner's hair is cut to within one inch of his skull, he is issued normal prison clothing, given a number and placed in solitary confinement for several weeks.

Thereafter, the prisoner may work under guard in a factory, mine or construction job. The bookkeeping for this work is fancy, and indicates the prisoner earns a basic wage of 188 marks ($45) a month. But after deductions, the prisoner has left only 15 marks ($3.60).

If he is on his good behavior, he is permitted to spend the money in a special commissary, to supplement regular rations, which the Socialists described as mainly bread and soup, with a couple of slivers of sausage twice a week and boiled potatoes on Sunday.

As an inducement, prisoners are promised their sentences will be reduced by one day for each two days they work—on condition they overfulfill their "work norms" by 141 per cent.

"But the norms are so high that only an insignificant percentage of the prisoners are physically able to fulfill them, much less exceed them," the Socialists said.

The Lutheran church weekly Sonntagsblatt recounted recently the experience of a woman who spent five months in a Communist East German jail. The women, she said, slept in their underclothing and, as cells were overcrowded, many bedded in dirty blankets on the cement floors. Once every fortnight, they were allowed to shower.

Many of the prisoners were sentenced for attempting to flee to West Germany.

Thereon hangs one of the best bits of gallows humor ex-prisoners have reported.

The tale has it that a government man from East Berlin inspecting an insane asylum asked why a certain morose party had been certified.

"He tried to flee East Germany," was the reply.

"But that doesn't make him crazy," the inspector murmured.

"But this one," came the answer, "tried to escape to the Soviet Union."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners)

HOLLYWOOD—At Jimmy McHugh's birthday party last summer Broadway producer David Merrick (he has just SEVEN hits current in New York) met Anna Maria Alberghetti, listened to her sing, and told her: "I'm going to have something important for you in a Broadway show."

Now Louella Parsons is back from New York with the news that Merricks' words were not just an idle compliment. Merrick has signed Anna Maria for "Carnival," the stage version of "Lili" which was such a screen smash with Leslie Caron. Since everything Merrick touches turns into a hit—what a break for the Italian songbird.

Miss L.O.P. adds, "The show doesn't start until April—so Anna Maria will try to keep her date with Joseph Levine to co-star with Donald O'Connor in 'Aladdin'."

In your league and mine an offer of $2,000,000 against 20 per cent of the gross is a lot of money. It was made over the weekend by Ray Stark to William Paley for the screen rights to "My Fair Lady." Bets are it will be turned down. How much longer "My Fair Lady" will be refused for the screen poses an interesting problem. Even the greatest of musicals can suffer from over-exposure of publicity and the constant playing of a popular score. Witness "South Pacific" which wasn't the overwhelming success expected as a picture in this country (Europe was different) because the public was over-familiar with the music and book.

Leave it to Rex Harrison to be frank about why he is turning down another Broadway musical. Recalling that he might well have run in "My Fair Lady" the rest of his theatrical life, Harrison said, on refusing the musical version of "Adventures of Sherlock Homes":

"Im' not a young man and figure I have only about 15 years left on the stage. Another musical hit—and this is sure to be with S. M. Behrman's book and Richard Rodgers' score, would take about three years—and that's a big chunk out of my remaining career."

Still the financial headaches pile up for singer Helen O'Connell and they are not expected to be alleviated when the will of Tom Chamles, her late husband, is filed this month.

Despite the success of some of his books, particularly "Go Naked in the World" which became a movie starring Gina Lollobrigida, Chamles' estate is not expected to cover his debts. Helen, now singing in the lounge of the Stardust Hotel in Las Vegas, is winning much respect by saying she will not file for bankruptcy but will try to pay off the obligations. It's a gallant stand by a lady with three daughters to support.

Arthur Lake, the popular Dagwood of "Blondie" over 12 years of radio and TV exposure, dropped by the office and handed us some laughs about his new TV venture, "Jimmy and Me." Along with Irving Cummings Jr. and Ray Berwick, Arthur is producing this comedy series about a boy and his dog—and the dog talks! "We looked around for an actor to be the voice of the dog — when suddenly I thought of myself. As one of the producers," laughed Arthur, "I gave myself the job." The pooch, you may be interested to know, cost the company $1.50 and hails from the city pound.

Sue and Alan Ladd eat Thanksgiving dinner with the Bill Bendixes in New York, then sail the next day on the United States for Rome where Alan will star in "Orazio" for Lux-Tiberius Films. Before they left Hollywood Sue called to say that the spectacle has a four months shooting schedule, six weeks of which will be on location in Yugoslavia. "This means all our holiday plans for Christmas in Palm Springs with our family and friends is off," she said a little wistfully. However, 12-year-old David and debutante Alana plan to fly to Rome for Christmas.

EUB Young People To Hold Rally Here

The annual fall rally of the Evangelical United Brethren Young People of the Keyser-Cumberland District will be Saturday from 3 to 8:30 p. m. at First EUB Church here. Approximately 150 are expected to attend the rally.

The program and workshop will be conducted by officers and counselors of the Virginia Conference. Officers are Rev. Thomas Coffman, youth director; Edward Henry, president; Edward Grove, vice president; Joyce Fraley, secretary, and Rev. D. A. Frazier, treasurer.

Chairmen include Sandra Lauffer, commission on christian faith; Carol Jean Swain, christian outreach; Joseph Flory, christian witness; Patricia McDaniel, christian fellowship, and Faye Farris, christian citizenship.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Miller, host pastor, said the Young People unit in the district will participate in the program. Andra Getz, of the host Young People, will sing "Indian Love Call." Sharon Goss of the Youth Fellowship of First Church has been named "Indian Princess" for the program.

Registration will be conducted by Nancy Shuman, and supper tickets will be handled by Andra Getz, Judy Murphy and Sharon Getz. An indoor campfire scene will be arranged by Roger Nesbitt and Ronald Godlove, and Judy Murphy will be in charge of music.

Signs for workshop rooms are being prepared by Gary Cook, and supper tickets are being prepared by Michael Cook.

The welcoming address will be made by Ronald Godlove, local YF president, who also will invite the representatives to attend a skating party here December 1.

Mrs. Paul Getz, director of Youth Fellowship at First Church, said the Virginia Conference chairman will present reports on youth work from the National Youth Fellowship convention held at Indianapolis.

The supper, which will be served at 5:30 p. m., will be under direction of the church activities committee of First Church, of which Mrs. J. H. Sommerkamp is chairman.

Magazine Tells How To Keep Christ In Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI)—What can an ordinary American family do to "Keep Christ in Christmas?"

Here are eight simple practical suggestions from the Methodist magazine Together:

—Attend the services in your church.

—Give gifts to those outside your circle of family and to friends who cannot repay you in kind. Break the habit of gift swapping.

—Write a note of appreciation to someone who, during the year, did some outstanding public work in an unselfish manner, or whose words or deeds were an inspiration to you. Written words are especially appreciated.

—Phone or call on some lonely person and wish him a Merry Christmas. You may be his only caller the whole season.

—Send a cash gift through a church or charitable channel to needy people overseas. You will be helping people who will never know their benefactor.

—Invite someone to eat Christmas dinner with you—a foreign student, perhaps, who cannot repay you in kind.

—Provide your minister with a cash gift for someone in need, specifying that he not reveal your name.

—Get down on your knees and thank God that you are living in a land so blessed with riches that it is possible for you to be on the giving instead of the receiving end.

Doctor's Prescription For One Patient Only — Not For Just Anybody!
You could buy a prescribed drug ever tre counter more cheaply if the doctor would only tell you the name of it. In general, drugs of greatest potency are restricted to prescription sales for the protection of patient and public against misuse. Yet many valuable drugs can be bought over the counter and a physician often does tell a physician to do so. A prescribed drug, however, regardless of ingredients, is importantly different from drugs for the general public .The physician assumes professional responsibility when he signs a prescription. He gives important "how to take" directions, specifies exact dosage and combinations of ingredients for ONE PARTICULAR PATIENT, not for just anybody. The pharmacist puts directions on the label and assumes responsibility that the medicine is exactly what the doctor ordered and that it can be safely taken in the dosage specified. A prescription includes important professional services in addition to the drug, all of which are designed to protect the patient.
Nevertheless, when you have your prescription filled at Walsh-McCagh, you don't pay anything extra for these services in most cases. Unless there is something extra added to your prescription, the price is the same at Walsh-McCagh whether you ask for the drug by name or bring in a prescription for it. We invite you to test us and see. This is just one more reason why you'll find Wash-McCagh a friendly place to do business and why we maintain our position as Maryland's Leading Prescription Store.

Veeck Says New A L Teams Will Lack Quality Players

League Meets Today To Plan For Expansion

Owner Of Chisox Sees Clubs Doomed To Role Of Losers

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox charged Wednesday that a proposed plan for providing players to the two new American League franchises would doom them to the role of losers.

The White Sox's president asserted at a meeting of the league's general managers on Wednesday that the plan already approved by a majority of the present AL teams would not give the new teams in Los Angeles and Washington enough quality players to be competitive.

The player plan was the chief order of business at the general manager's meeting, which was held to pave the way for the formal league meeting on the entire expansion question which opens here Thursday.

The Player Plan

The player plan, which was drawn up by a committee of representatives from four teams, was as follows:

Each of the present eight teams in the AL would designate 12 players on their 40-man rosters who would be available for purchase by the new teams. Of these 12 players, 10 would have to be players with at least three years of major league experience.

Los Angeles would be permitted to buy three players from each of four teams and four players from each of the other four teams, a total of 28 players. Washington would be permitted to buy the same number. However, no more than seven players could be bought from any one team by the two new clubs.

A new club would not have to buy the entire 28—it might want, for example, to buy only 12 and fill out its roster with minor league prospects and rookies.

Yanks Could Lose Seven

Under this plan, the pennant-winning Yankees probably could figure on losing the full seven players to the new teams whereas the last - place Kansas City A's might not lose the full seven.

What the new teams would pay for these players is under study. However, it will probably be the same price for each player. This is in contrast to the present AL disaster plan, under which a team decimated by an air or train crash may buy three players from each team — the first for $100,000, the second for $75,000, and the third for $50,000.

Veeck contends, however, that higher qualifications should be demanded of players made available for purchase.

Otherwise, the volatile Chicago prexy said, the new teams will wind up with the dregs of the league and simply won't be able to give the other clubs a good battle.

Pitt Gives Michelosen Indefinite Contract

Joins Administration Staff With Status Of Faculty Member

By RUDY CERNKOVIC
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — John Michelosen, who learned the finer points of football as a quarterback for the University of Pittsburgh and rose to head coach of the Panthers, was assured Wednesday of a lifetime association with his Alma Mater.

The 44 - year - old Michelosen, named coach-of-the-week by United Press International two weeks ago after Pitt upset Syracuse, 10-0, will be retained "indefinitely' as an administrative staff member of the university with the status of a faculty member. However, Michelosens' association need not remain in the realm of football.

Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield announced the arrangement at an afternoon press conference. Michelosen's three-year contract was to expire at the end of this year but he was not required to sign a new pact.

No Contract Worries

"He will no longer have to worry about contract renewals,' Litchfield said. "John Michelosen is our coach—indefinitely. He will continue to work here on the same basis as all of our other staff members. If he ever decides to quit coaching, it will give him an opportunity for an assignment to some other university area.'

Pitt and Penn State meet Saturday in a traditional season finale at Pitt Stadium. The Panthers have won four games, lost to UCLA and Oklahoma by one point margins, and played 7 - 7 ties against Michigan State, Texas Christian and Army.

Michelosens' shining hour this season came when the Panthers ended Syracuse's victory streak at 16 games with the 10-0 upset at the losers' field. This accomplishment brought Michelosen the UPI accolade.

Pleased With Arrangement

Michelosen said he was pleased with the new arrangement, which guaranteed him security.

"I played at Pitt and feel it is my home," he said. "I am happy to be a member of the university team."

When Michelosen moved up from assistant to head coach in 1954 he completed a cycle in his football life. He has the post held by the late Dr. Jock Sutherland, his college coach who molded single-wing Panther powerhouses in the 1920s and 1930s.

It was the second time he succeeded his college mentor. When Sutherland died in 1948, Michelosen was chosen to replace him as coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers. He remained with the National Football League entry until 1952 when he returned to Pitt as assistant to Red Dawson.

Braves Seeking Yank Infielder

Three Milwaukee Players Mentioned

NEW YORK (UPI) —General Manager Johnny McHale of the Milwaukee Braves conferred Tuesday with Roy Hamey, new boss of the New York Yankees, regarding a trade presumably involving Cletis Boyer or Gil McDougald.

McHale admitted the Braves were seeking an infielder, although he did not specify which Yankee player he sought.

"I think we can do business with them,' McHale said. "But we'll have to wait until this expansion is out of the way.'

All American League rosters have been frozen by Commissioner Ford Frick until players have been assigned to the two proposed new franchises at Los Angeles and Washington.

The inter-league free trading period starts Nov. 21.

The Yankees are seeking pitching and a left - handed hitter. Pitchers Juan Pizarro and Joey Jay, and outfielder Wes Covington are believed to represent the Braves 'trading bait.

The Yankees also are known to be seeking pitcher Johnny Antonelli of the San Francisco Giants. The Giants have asked for catcher John Blanchard, shortstop Joe DeMaestri and either pitcher Ryne Duren or Bobby Shantz, but the Yankees feel that demand is too high.

Schayes Tops 16,000

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Dolph Schayes reached the 16,000-point plateau in his professional career Wednesday night to help the Syracuse Nationals notch their third victory in nine starts by walloping the Cincinnati Royals, 124-87.

By the time the evening was completed, Schayes—now in his 13th season with Syracuse — totalled 13 points and now has 16,004 in regular season games.

Gambler Gave MacBeth Cash To Fix Game

Wagman Testifies In Florida Court

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Aaron Wagman, alleged front man for a nationwide gambling syndicate, admitted in court Wednesday he paid Florida fullback Jon MacBeth $1,500 to fix the Florida - Florida State football game this fall.

Wagman, 27, of New York, taking the stand in his own defense, put the blame on Philip Silber, 19, a former University of Florida junior, for setting up the deal.

The tall, stocky defendant said he met Silber in New York last summer through a man identified as Paul Geller, a souvenir salesman at Yankee Stadium. Wagman said Silber told him he had made an arrangement with MacBeth and would let Wagman in on the scheme if he was willing to pay.

Silber, a former fraternity brother of MacBeths', was charged with conspiring with Wagman to bribe the first-team fullback to hold down the score in the Florida-Florida State game Sept. 24. Silber pleaded guilty and was the states first witness Tuesday.

Both sides rested their cases after Wagmans' testimony.

Peanuts Add To Bad Luck Of WVU Team

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia Universitys' football team has had all kinds of luck this fall—most of it bad.

An example is the patch guard Bob Fuller of Moundsville is wearing on his chin.

Fuller and another sophomore guard, Keith Melenyzer, were walking down a street last Friday in Portland, Ore., on the eve of the WVU-Oregon game.

They bought some peanuts and started that boyish game of tossing a peanut into the air and catching it in their mouth.

The game was fine until both made a grab for the same peanut. In a collision of heads, Fuller received a cut on this chin which required five stitches. Melenyzer was only shaken up.

This followed by only a few hours a practice injury to sophomore end Frank Schneider. He suffered a badly torn set of ligaments in his knee when he slipped and fell on some bleachers after he ran out of the end zone to catch a pass.

Fuller and Melenyzer did play in the 20-6 loss to Oregon but Schneider's knee will require a long rest.

Pitt Conceded Edge, Missouri Team Standout

Badgers Picked Over Gophers And UCLA Over Southern Cal

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The hottest and most uncomfortable seat in college football is the No. 1 chair in the national ratings, a spot taken over this week by Missouri.

Kansas, with a powerful team, will be the darling of the upset specialists. Reversing a limb-hanging trend which gave us 38 winners in 50 games last week for a .760 average, we think Missouri will face up to the pressures and come out on top.

The picks:

Missouri 23, Kansas 15: This is Missouri's best team in 50 years.

Yale 28, Harvard 14: Tom Singleton and his mates carry the Eli to their ninth victory and a perfect season.

Duke 13, North Carolina 0: Bill Murray's Blue Devils edge nearer a bowl.

Wisconsin 18, Minnesota 14: Gophers fail to snap back after last week's setback.

Pittsburgh 15, Penn State 14: So tight a two-point conversion may decide this battle of Pennsylvania toughies.

Rice 10, Texas Christian 7: Another "pitchers duel" in the once wide open Southwest Conference.

UCLA 20, Southern California 14: the 13-point spead looks too big in this traditionally rugged struggle.

Arkansas 13, Texas Tech 0: Surprising Razorbacks clinch the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl.

Iowa 28, Notre Dame 7: Forest Evashevski's last game as Iowa coach.

Washington 23, Washington State 7: Huskies don't let down.

Tennessee 7, Kentucky 0: Not much scoring, but a plethora of bumps and bruises mark this Dixie classic.

Officials To Elect

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Basketball Officials Association today at 7:30 p. m. at the Wilson Hardware Company conference room. Officials will meet with the coaches at 8:15 p. m.

Terp Booters Play Rutgers In NCAA Game

Tourney Battle Set For Monday

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The University of Maryland Wednesday announced that the two remaining games on its soccer schedule have been canceled so the team may play in the first round of the NCAA tournament Monday.

A spokesman for the school said Georgetown and Washington & Lee agreed to cancel their games with Maryland in order for the Terps to play Rutgers in the qualifying round.

Maryland had been scheduled to play Georgetown in Washington Saturday and Washington & Lee here Tuesday.

This is the second straight year Maryland has canceled its games with the two schools in order to play in the tournament.

The Terps will be meeting one of the strongest teams in the East when they face Rutgers. The Scarlet has scored 52 goals while allowing their opponents 9 in compiling a 10-0 record.

Maryland's record is 7-1-1, scoring 40 goals to their opponents' 8. The Terps, while going undefeated and capturing the Atlantic Coast Conference title, ran into difficulty out of the league. They lost to Army and tied Navy 1-1 in a double-overtime.

Colts Films Don't Reveal Disputed TD

Ewbank Says End Of Play Not Shown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Weeb Ewbank said Wednesday "our films don't show" the controversial touchdown his Baltimore Colts scored Sunday to beat the Chicago Bears.

"Therefore, I won't have any comment," said Ewbank. "The game's over and we're preparing for the next one."

That touchdown in the last minute of play pulled out a 24-20 victory for the Colts.

Ewbank did not look at the Colt film of the game until this afternoon. "The end of the play isn't on it," he said.

Coach Halas said he made public his views only because Coach Ewbank had ben reported saying Caroline had been trying to bump Moore.

"I don't remember telling any reporters that Caroline bumped Moore," Ewbank replied to that.

"Maybe one was standing around when I told Carroll Rosenbloom (principal owner of the Colts), but I certainly don't recall telling that to any reporter."

Halas said he planned to discuss the play with Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League. But he had not decided whether to make a formal protest.

Moore himself said of the play: "All I know is I got out there, then it was J. C. Caroline and me. I felt something hit my leg and then I looked up and saw that beautiful ball descending in a perfect arc."

Rangers Win, 4-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dean Prentice scored with only one second to play to climax a three-goal rally in the final period and earn the New York Rangers a 4-3 victory over the Boston Bruins Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Veeck Says New A L Teams Will Lack Quality Players

League Meets Today To Plan For Expansion

Owner Of Chisox Sees Clubs Doomed To Role Of Losers

By NORMAN MILLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Veeck of the Chicago White Sox charged Wednesday that a proposed plan for providing players to the two new American League franchises would doom them to the role of losers.

The White Sox's president asserted at a meeting of the league's general managers on Wednesday that the plan already approved by a majority of the present AL teams would not give the new teams in Los Angeles and Washington enough quality players to be competitive.

The player plan was the chief order of business at the general manager's meeting, which was held to pave the way for the formal league meeting on the entire expansion question which opens here Thursday.

The Player Plan

The player plan, which was drawn up by a committee of representatives from four teams, was as follows:

Each of the present eight teams in the AL would designate 12 players on their 40-man rosters who would be available for purchase by the new teams. Of these 12 players, 10 would have to be players with at least three years of major league experience.

Los Angeles would be permitted to buy three players from each of four teams and four players from each of the other four teams, a total of 28 players. Washington would be permitted to buy the same number. However, no more than seven players could be bought from any one team by the two new clubs.

A new club would not have to buy the entire 28—it might want, for example, to buy only 12 and fill out its roster with minor league prospects and rookies.

Yanks Could Lose Seven

Under this plan, the pennant-winning Yankees probably could figure on losing the full seven players to the new teams whereas the last - place Kansas City A's might not lose the full seven.

What the new teams would pay for these players is under study. However, it will probably be the same price for each player. This is in contrast to the present AL disaster plan, under which a team decimated by an air or train crash may buy three players from each team — the first for $100,000, the second for $75,000, and the third for $50,000.

Veeck contends, however, that higher qualifications should be demanded of players made available for purchase.

Otherwise, the volatile Chicago prexy said, the new teams will wind up with the dregs of the league and simply won't be able to give the other clubs a good battle.

GETS PERMANENT JOB—John Michelosen, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, poses with Dr. Edward Litchfield after Pitt's chancellor yesterday tendered Michelosen an indefinite contract. Litchfield burned the only three-year contract, expiring at the end of this season. "His job is just as permanent as mine," said Litchfield in making the appointment. (AP Photofax)

Pitt Gives Michelosen Indefinite Contract

Joins Administration Staff With Status Of Faculty Member

By RUDY CERNKOVIC
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — John Michelosen, who learned the finer points of football as a quarterback for the University of Pittsburgh and rose to head coach of the Panthers, was assured Wednesday of a lifetime association with his Alma Mater.

The 44 - year - old Michelosen, named coach-of-the-week by United Press International two weeks ago after Pitt upset Syracuse, 10-0, will be retained "indefinitely" as an administrative staff member of the university with the status of a faculty member. However, Michelosens' association need not remain in the realm of football.

Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield announced the arrangement at an afternoon press conference. Michelosen's three-year contract was to expire at the end of this year but he was not required to sign a new pact.

No Contract Worries

"He will no longer have to worry about contract renewals,' Litchfield said. "John Michelosen is our coach—indefinitely. He will continue to work here on the same basis as all of our other staff members. If he ever decides to quit coaching, it will give him an opportunity for an assignment to some other university area.'

Pitt and Penn State meet Saturday in a traditional season finale at Pitt Stadium. The Panthers have won four games, lost to UCLA and Oklahoma by one point margins, and played 7 - 7 ties against Michigan State, Texas Christian and Army.

Michelosens' shining hour this season came when the Panthers ended Syracuse's victory streak at 16 games with the 10-0 upset at the losers' field. This accomplishment brought Michelosen the UPI accolade.

Pleased With Arrangement

Michelosen said he was pleased with the new arrangement, which guaranteed him security.

"I played at Pitt and feel it is my home," he said. "I am happy to be a member of the university team."

When Michelosen moved up from assistant to head coach in 1954 he completed a cycle in his football life. He has the post held by the late Dr. Jock Sutherland, his college coach who molded single-wing Panther powerhouses in the 1920s and 1930s.

It was the second time he succeeded his college mentor. When Sutherland died in 1948, Michelosen was chosen to replace him as coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers. He remained with the National Football League entry until 1952 when he returned to Pitt as assistant to Red Dawson.

Braves Seeking Yank Infielder

Three Milwaukee Players Mentioned

NEW YORK (UPI) —General Manager Johnny McHale of the Milwaukee Braves conferred Tuesday with Roy Hamey, new boss of the New York Yankees, regarding a trade presumably involving Cletis Boyer or Gil McDougald.

McHale admitted the Braves were seeking an infielder, although he did not specify which Yankee player he sought.

"I think we can do business with them,' McHale said. "But we'll have to wait until this expansion is out of the way.'

All American League rosters have been frozen by Commissioner Ford Frick until players have been assigned to the two proposed new franchises at Los Angeles and Washington.

The inter-league free trading period starts Nov. 21.

The Yankees are seeking pitching and a left - handed hitter. Pitchers Juan Pizarro and Joey Jay, and outfielder Wes Covington are believed to represent the Braves 'trading bait.

The Yankees also are known to be seeking pitcher Johnny Antonelli of the San Francisco Giants. The Giants have asked for catcher John Blanchard, shortstop Joe DeMaestri and either pitcher Ryne Duren or Bobby Shantz, but the Yankees feel that demand is too high.

By the time the evening was completed, Schayes—now in his 13th season with Syracuse — totalled 13 points and now has 16,004 in regular season games.

Gambler Gave MacBeth Cash To Fix Game

Wagman Testifies In Florida Court

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Aaron Wagman, alleged front man for a nationwide gambling syndicate, admitted in court Wednesday he paid Florida fullback Jon MacBeth $1,500 to fix the Florida - Florida State football game this fall.

Wagman, 27, of New York, taking the stand in his own defense, put the blame on Philip Silber, 19, a former University of Florida junior, for setting up the deal.

The tall, stocky defendant said he met Silber in New York last summer through a man identified as Paul Geller, a souvenir salesman at Yankee Stadium. Wagman said Silber told him he had made an arrangement with MacBeth and would let Wagman in on the scheme if he was willing to pay.

Silber, a former fraternity brother of MacBeths', was charged with conspiring with Wagman to bribe the first-team fullback to hold down the score in the Florida-Florida State game Sept. 24. Silber pleaded guilty and was the states first witness Tuesday.

Both sides rested their cases after Wagmans' testimony.

Peanuts Add To Bad Luck Of WVU Team

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —West Virginia Universitys' football team has had all kinds of luck this fall—most of it bad.

An example is the patch guard Bob Fuller of Moundsville is wearing on his chin.

Fuller and another sophomore guard, Keith Melenyzer, were walking down a street last Friday in Portland, Ore., on the eve of the WVU-Oregon game.

They bought some peanuts and started that boyish game of tossing a peanut into the air and catching it in their mouth.

The game was fine until both made a grab for the same peanut. In a collision of heads, Fuller received a cut on this chin which required five stitches. Melenyzer was only shaken up.

This followed by only a few hours a practice injury to sophomore end Frank Schneider. He suffered a badly torn set of ligaments in his knee when he slipped and fell on some bleachers after he ran out of the end zone to catch a pass.

Fuller and Melenyzer did play in the 20-6 loss to Oregon but Schneider's knee will require a long rest.

Pitt Conceded Edge, Missouri Team Standout

Badgers Picked Over Gophers And UCLA Over Southern Cal

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The hottest and most uncomfortable seat in college football is the No. 1 chair in the national ratings, a spot taken over this week by Missouri.

Kansas, with a powerful team, will be the darling of the upset specialists. Reversing a limb-hanging trend which gave us 38 winners in 50 games last week for a .760 average, we think Missouri will face up to the pressures and come out on top.

The picks:

Missouri 23, Kansas 15: This is Missouri's best team in 50 years.

Yale 28, Harvard 14: Tom Singleton and his mates carry the Eli to their ninth victory and a perfect season.

Duke 13, North Carolina 0: Bill Murray's Blue Devils edge nearer a bowl.

Wisconsin 18, Minnesota 14: Gophers fail to snap back after last week's setback.

Pittsburgh 15, Penn State 14: So tight a two-point conversion may decide this battle of Pennsylvania toughies.

Rice 10, Texas Christian 7: Another "pitchers duel" in the once wide open Southwest Conference.

UCLA 20, Southern California 14: the 13-point spead looks too big in this traditionally rugged struggle.

Arkansas 13, Texas Tech 0: Surprising Razorbacks clinch the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl.

Iowa 28, Notre Dame 7: Forest Evashevski's last game as Iowa coach.

Washington 23, Washington State 7: Huskies don't let down.

Tennessee 7, Kentucky 0: Not much scoring, but a plethora of bumps and bruises mark this Dixie classic.

Officials To Elect

Officers will be elected at a meeting of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Basketball Officials Association today at 7:30 p. m. at the Wilson Hardware Company conference room. Officials will meet with the coaches at 8:15 p. m.

Terp Booters Play Rutgers In NCAA Game

Tourney Battle Set For Monday

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The University of Maryland Wednesday announced that the two remaining games on its soccer schedule have been canceled so the team may play in the first round of the NCAA tournament Monday.

A spokesman for the school said Georgetown and Washington & Lee agreed to cancel their games with Maryland in order for the Terps to play Rutgers in the qualifying round.

Maryland had been scheduled to play Georgetown in Washington Saturday and Washington & Lee here Tuesday.

This is the second straight year Maryland has canceled its games with the two schools in order to play in the tournament.

The Terps will be meeting one of the strongest teams in the East when they face Rutgers. The Scarlet has scored 52 goals while allowing their opponents 9 in compiling a 10-0 record.

Maryland's record is 7-1-1, scoring 40 goals to their opponents' 8. The Terps, while going undefeated and capturing the Atlantic Coast Conference title, ran into difficulty out of the league. They lost to Army and tied Navy 1-1 in a double-overtime.

Colts Films Don't Reveal Disputed TD

Ewbank Says End Of Play Not Shown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Weeb Ewbank said Wednesday "our films don't show" the controversial touchdown his Baltimore Colts scored Sunday to beat the Chicago Bears.

"Therefore, I won't have any comment," said Ewbank. "The game's over and we're preparing for the next one."

Coach George Halas of the Bears claimed his movies showed halfback Lenny Moore shoved and knocked down defending back J. C. Caroline before catching a pass in the end zone.

That touchdown in the last minute of play pulled out a 24-20 victory for the Colts.

Ewbank did not look at the Colt film of the game until this afternoon. "The end of the play isn't on it," he said.

Coach Halas said he made public his views only because Coach Ewbank had ben reported saying Caroline had been trying to bump Moore.

"I don't remember telling any reporters that Caroline bumped Moore." Ewbank replied to that. "Maybe one was standing around when I told Carroll Rosenbloom (principal owner of the Colts), but I certainly don't recall telling that to any reporter."

Halas said he planned to discuss the play with Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League. But he had not decided whether to make a formal protest.

Moore himself said of the play: "All I know is I got out there, then it was J. C. Caroline and me. I felt something hit my leg and then I looked up and saw that beautiful ball descending in a perfect arc."

Rangers Win, 4-3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dean Prentice scored with only one second to play to climax a three-goal rally in the final period and earn the New York Rangers a 4-3 victory over the Boston Bruins Wednesday night at Madison Square Garden.

Russians Fail To Sell Horses, Price Too High

Ask Half Million For Zabeg, Zadorny

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The Russians took their two race horses back home Wednesday night with a half a million price tag on them bringing "no sale' from Americans.

A New York representative of Americans who expressed an interest in buying the horses said "no' when informed the Russians wanted $250,000 for each of them.

The unidentified Americans had asked Laurel officials to find out from the Russians if they wanted to sell the horses after they came in third and fourth in last Fridays' Washington D. C. International.

The price put on Zabeg and Zadorny by officials in Moscow Wednesday morning quickly ended negotiations before they really started. The Americans remained unidentified and they did not talk directly with any of the Russians.

The horses were loaded aboard a plane at Friendship International Airport to be flown back to Moscow.

Asking Price Too High

The quarter of a million asked by the Russians for each horse was about twice as much as Americans have paid to buy previous foreign entries in the International.

These included Sailor's Guide, the 1958 winner on a foul from Australia; Master Boing, the 1956 winner from France; Midnight Sun, last years' runner-up from France, and Stephanotis, Irelands' third horse in 1957.

Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, also bought Mahan after he had returned to France from a 10th place finish in 1955. Mahan returned to win the International for Reuben in 1957.

If Horses Were Sold

If the Russians had sold Zabeg and Zadorny, they would have had to refund to Laurel the cost of transporting them from Moscow. Laurel pays the round trip expenses of all International entries if they arent' sold here.

Any purchaser of the Russian horses also would have faced possible payment of 11 per cent of the price in duty to the U. S. government.

The government allows free import of foreign thoroughbreds. But Russian horses are not recognized in the stud book of The Jockey Club, parent body of American racing, as thoroughbreds.

Golden Gate Daily Double Pays $8,711

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The third largest daily double pay-off in racing history, and the largest ever in California, showed up at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday when the winners of the first and second races combined to pay $8,711.40.

Oriolo, a two-year-old bay filly, won the first race and paid $226.20 Then came Covinan to win the second and pay $44.

After Oriolo won the first race, it was going to be a big pay-off —no matter which horse won in the second.

In fact, if a horse named Wide Ration had won the second (he finished last), the pay-off would have been $43,577.20.

The only higher daily doubles in history were the $12,724.80 paid at Agua Caliente in 1954; and the $10,772.40 at Washington Park in Chicago, in 1939.

The previous California record was $4,199.60, at Golden Gate Fields in 1957.

Ben Finishes 2nd In Laurel Feature

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—Gaining his fourth consecutive victory, Richard S. Reynolds Jr.'s Sweet Amen had possession of the rail all the way in the Park Heights Purse, featured seventh race at old Pimlico, today, and paid $5.60.

Favorite for the first time in his skein of wins, Sweet Amen eased away from his rivals in the late stretch and won by two and a half lengths.

Vital Force, a stakes winner last year, was slightly in front of Sweet Amen in the opening furlongs, but gave way in the stretch to permit Mrs. Ben Cohen's Ben to close for second money. Vital Force was third about four lengths behind the second finisher.

Arthur Chambers has ridden Sweet Amen in all of his victories and rode with confidence in the Park Heights when content to be second for the first quarter mile. When the veteran asked his mount for top speed in late stretch, Sweet Amen responded and was easing away from Ben at the end.

A son of Bless Me and Sugared, Sweet Amen ran one of the fastest sprints thus far of the meeting when he posted 1.11 2/5 on the infield board.

Russians Fail To Sell Horses, Price Too High

Ask Half Million For Zabeg, Zadorny

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The Russians took their two race horses back home Wednesday night with a half a million price tag on them bringing "no sale' from Americans.

A New York representative of Americans who expressed an interest in buying the horses said "no' when informed the Russians wanted $250,000 for each of them.

The unidentified Americans had asked Laurel officials to find out from the Russians if they wanted to sell the horses after they came in third and fourth in last Fridays' Washington D. C. International.

The price put on Zabeg and Zadorny by officials in Moscow Wednesday morning quickly ended negotiations before they really started. The Americans remained unidentified and they did not talk directly with any of the Russians.

The horses were loaded aboard a plane at Friendship International Airport to be flown back to Moscow.

Asking Price Too High

The quarter of a million asked by the Russians for each horse was about twice as much as Americans have paid to buy previous foreign entries in the International.

These included Sailor's Guide, the 1958 winner on a foul from Australia; Master Boing, the 1956 winner from France; Midnight Sun, last years' runner-up from France, and Stephanotis, Irelands' third horse in 1957.

Allie Reuben of Toledo, Ohio, also bought Mahan after he had returned to France from a 10th place finish in 1955. Mahan returned to win the International for Reuben in 1957.

If Horses Were Sold

If the Russians had sold Zabeg and Zadorny, they would have had to refund to Laurel the cost of transporting them from Moscow. Laurel pays the round trip expenses of all International entries if they arent' sold here.

Any purchaser of the Russian horses also would have faced possible payment of 11 per cent of the price in duty to the U. S. government.

The government allows free import of foreign thoroughbreds. But Russian horses are not recognized in the stud book of The Jockey Club, parent body of American racing, as thoroughbreds.

Golden Gate Daily Double Pays $8,711

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — The third largest daily double pay-off in racing history, and the largest ever in California, showed up at Golden Gate Fields Wednesday when the winners of the first and second races combined to pay $8,711.40.

Oriolo, a two-year-old bay filly, won the first race and paid $226.20 Then came Covinan to win the second and pay $44.

After Oriolo won the first race, it was going to be a big pay-off—no matter which horse won in the second.

In fact, if a horse named Wide Ration had won the second (he finished last), the pay-off would have been $43,577.20.

The only higher daily doubles in history were the $12,724.80 paid at Agua Caliente in 1954; and the $10,772.40 at Washington Park in Chicago, in 1939.

The previous California record was $4,199.60, at Golden Gate Fields in 1957.

Sweet Amen Scores 4th Win In Row

Ben Finishes 2nd In Laurel Feature

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 16 (AP)—Gaining his fourth consecutive victory, Richard S. Reynolds Jr.'s Sweet Amen had possession of the rail all the way in the Park Heights Purse, featured seventh race at old Pimlico today, and paid $5.60.

Favorite for the first time in his skein of wins, Sweet Amen eased away from his rivals in the late stretch and won by two and a half lengths.

Vital Force, a stakes winner last year, was slightly in front of Sweet Amen in the opening furlongs, but gave way in the stretch to permit Mrs. Ben Cohen's Ben to close for second money. Vital Force was third about four lengths behind the second finisher.

Arthur Chambers has ridden Sweet Amen in all of his victories and rode with confidence in the Park Heights when content to be second for the first quarter mile. When the veteran asked his mount for top speed in late stretch, Sweet Amen responded and was easing away from Ben at the end.

A son of Bless Me and Sugared, Sweet Amen ran one of the fastest sprints thus far of the meeting when he posted 1.11 2/5 on the infield board.

Stock Market, In Narrow Trading, Loses Ground

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market faded in the closing minutes Wednesday through lack of leadership as the specialty issues which shored up the bastions Tuesday were thrown for some wide losses.

The dip was a small one on average, however, but came on higher volume in one of the most narrowly traded sessions of the year.

Most of the blue chips were down slightly except for a 3 point gain in Procter & Gamble. The latter stock kept the Dow-Jones industrial average to only a 2.10 point loss at 604.77 while the rails eased 0.31 to 128.39 and the utilities added 0.39 to 94.10.

Volume rose to the high point of the week so far—3,110,000 shares against 2,990,000 on Tuesday.

Despite the narrow trading range, the number of stocks crossing the tape broadened to 1,232 including 521 losers, 470 gainers and 241 which did not change. The number of new highs outnumbered new lows for the fifth consecutive session, 21 to 16. Analysts consider this a sign of inherent market strength.

Typical of the specialty issues which lost ground was Brunswick, off 2⅞, responding to news that the company might issue $25-30 million worth of convertible debentures which, if converted, could dilute the common stock by 3½ to 4½ per cent. Brunswick's bowling companion, AMF, dropped 2⅛.

Stock Market, In Narrow Trading, Loses Ground

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market faded in the closing minutes Wednesday through lack of leadership as the specialty issues which shored up the bastions Tuesday were thrown for some wide losses.

The dip was a small one on average, however, but came on higher volume in one of the most narrowly traded sessions of the year.

Most of the blue chips were down slightly except for a 3 point gain in Procter & Gamble. The latter stock kept the Dow-Jones industrial average to only a 2.10 point loss at 604.77 while the rails eased 0.31 to 128.39 and the utilities added 0.39 to 94.10.

Volume rose to the high point of the week so far—3,110,000 shares against 2,990,000 on Tuesday.

Despite the narrow trading range, the number of stocks crossing the tape broadened to 1,232 including 521 losers, 470 gainers and 241 which did not change. The number of new highs outnumbered new lows for the fifth consecutive session, 21 to 16. Analysts consider this a sign of inherent market strength.

Typical of the specialty issues which lost ground was Brunswick, off 2⅞, responding to news that the company might issue $25-30 million worth of convertible debentures which, if converted, could dilute the common stock by 3½ to 4½ per cent. Brunswick's bowling companion, AMF, dropped 2⅛.

Murder Trial Ends With Hung Jury

Next Move In Case Uncertain

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Criminal Court jury was discharged late Wednesday after announcing it was deadlocked over a verdict in the murder trial of Charles Davis.

Davis, a 23-year-old Baltimore Negro, was charged in the fatal beating of Franklin Creamer, 49, an unemployed trucker and father of five children.

Newsmen said they learned the jury of nine men and three women stood 11 to 1 for conviction on the first-degree murder charge pressed by the State. Judge Joseph Byrnes discharged the jurors after they said further attempts to reach a unanimous decision would be futile.

The next step in the case was not immediately determined. Attorneys said the State could ask for a re-trial or accept a plea to a lesser charge than first-degree murder.

Before the case went to the jury, Davis took the stand in his own defense. He said he and a companion had struck Creamer on the night of Aug. 14 because he had insulted them. He claimed the robbery was merely an afterthought.

Davis and James P. Ewell, 18, Negro, were jointly indicted for the slaying of Creamer and also were charged with robbing him of $21 and a wrist watch.

Davis elected to go on trial before a jury, but Ewell chose a non-jury trial. Both pleaded innocent.

Creamer and two of his children had been living with his sister in Baltimore after he lost his job as a trucker last May. The victim's wife and other three children live with her parents in Cumberland.

Davis testified Creamer came staggering across the Frederick Avenue Bridge and ordered the two Negroes out of his way, using bad names.

Davis said he hit the white man with his fist and that Creamer fell back, hitting his head on the bridge railing. Then, Davis said, he and Ewell went through Creamer's pockets.

Asst. State's Atty. E. Thomas Maxwell Jr., in his opening statement to the jury, contended that the two had beaten Creamer with a toy pistol.

Evidence produced at the trial showed that Creamer died of a fractured skull and that he had suffered fractures of the nose and jaw.

Judge Joseph R. Byrnes presided at the trial.

Looking on are Scout Larry Ransom, Scoutmaster Glenn R. Kemmet and Scout Jack Slocomb. The presentation took place during a ceremony last night.

Pa. Fugitive Recaptured By State Police

Four Escapees Still At Large

One of five inmates who escaped this week from the State Correctional Institution, Huntingdon, Pa. was recaptured about noon yesterday by authorities of that state.

Donald Davidson, 23, of Baden, Beaver County, was apprehended as he crossed Dinner Bell Road about 14 miles east of Uniontown. The fugitive had nothing to say when officers questioned him about the whereabouts of his companions.

Davidson was wearing clothes reported stolen Tuesday night from a country store operated by Howard Glisan in Markleysburg. He and two others were seen by Glisan who had gone across the street to a restaurant.

Still at large are Scotty Robinette, 32, RD 2, Everett; Raymond Wade, 36, Washington, Pa.; Norman Keeler, 25, Houston, Pa.; and Robert Harn, 32, of Millsboro, Pa.

Maryland State Police, operating from the LaVale barracks, had a roadblock set up at the Pennsylvania state line Tuesday night.

Maryland Police today said that two of the fugitives are presumed to be in a car stolen in Uniontown Tuesday. They indicated that the men were probably traveling toward Maryland in the stolen vehicle.

All five escapees were spotted in Markleysburg, a rural community about 18 miles east of Uniontown, Tuesday night. Three of them were spotted robbing a general store there. The other two were in a restaurant across the street from the store.

The storeowner told police that the men had washed, shaved and were wearing clothing stolen from his store. Their prison garb was left behind. Meanwhile, a waitress told police that two unshaven strangers were in the restaurant. They fled in a 1950 automobile parked outside and headed toward Maryland on U.S. Route 40.

At least 20 state troopers from the Uniontown, Washington, Waynesburg and Somerset barracks set up roadblocks. They began to scour the woods yesterday at daybreak.

The fugitives, who were serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to forgery, were reportedly carrying knives and were described as "dangerous and desperate."

MILTON K. SUSMAN

Jewish Editor Will Speak At UJA Dinner

Milton K. Susman, editor of the Jewish Criterion of Pittsburgh, will speak at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club on Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in behalf of the United Jewish Appeal by the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland.

Mrs. Milton Bernstein will be mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Harvey Dezen heads the Hadassah organization which has charge of arrangements for the dinner.

Officers of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Western Maryland are Richard D. Schwab, president; Robert Kaplon, secretary, and George Ossip, treasurer.

Recently returned from an extensive survey tour of Israel, Mr. Susman covered the country "from Dan to Elath," the extreme north and south, talking to the man on the street, farmers, workers, and government officials.

A well-known civic leader in Pittsburgh, he is a director of the Pittsburgh Housing Authority and a member of the national administrative committee of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Mr. Susman has also surveyed the United Jewish Appeal work in North Africa and Europe, visiting children's homes, clinics, hospitals, and vocational schools.

Before he enlisted in the Army during the war, he attended Harvard University and the Pittsburgh Law School. After practicing law for some years he entered the advertising and public relations field, and for the past 15 years he has been operating his own agency.

This year the United Jewish Appeal seeks to raise a special fund in addition to the regular 1960 UJA campaign. The additional money will be used to help speed up the lagging processes of newcomer integration for 345,000 unabsorbed immigrants to Israel who have arrived in recent years.

'Mail Early For Christmas' Is Advice Of Postmasters

Faced with the possibility that the 1960 Christmas season will set an all-time holiday mailing record, postmasters of the tri-state area are starting their annual "Mail Early for Christmas" campaign immediately.

The Post Office will help you plan your Christmas mailings. Get a copy of Pamphlet No. 2 which gives full information about proper packaging and wrapping of parcels.

The postmasters of the area are offering these helpful mailing tips to insure delivery of your Christmas cards and gifts on time.

First of all, check the Christmas card list very carefully and make sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

For your Christmas gift packages, stock up now on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape.

Remember that you can include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift package by adding the appropriate first class postage to the package itself.

Buy your postage stamps now. Don't wait until the last minute when long lines form at the stamp windows.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon says that with your help the post offices will get the Christmas mails through on time. He is making many advance preparations to handle the 1960 Christmas mail rush by arranging for expanded facilities all around.

The postmasters request that you make it a point to mail your Christmas cards and gifts for the most distant points well before December 10. Those for nearby destinations should be mailed by December 15, or at least a week before Christmas.

Lonaconing Man Found Dead In Cellar Of Home

A 65-year-old Lonaconing man, missing since late Tuesday afternoon, was found hanging yesterday in the cellar of his home on Washington Street.

The death of Clarence Marshall Fazenbaker, retired farmer, was ruled a suicide by Dr. W. O. MacLane, Frostburg, deputy county medical examiner.

Mr. Fazenbaker was last seen by his family about 4 p. m. Tuesday. They reported his absence to police, and the man's body was found yesterday about 5:45 p. m. by Officer George Kirkwood of the Lonaconing Police Department.

The man had not been in ill health or despondent, authorities said.

A native of Garrett County he was a son of Henry H. Broadwater, Knapps Meadow, and the late Elizabeth Broadwater. During World War I he served in the army.

Besides his father, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel (Smith) Broadwater; four daughters, Mrs. Thelma Broadwater, Mrs. Marion Fazenbaker and Mrs. Lois Kimble, all of Lonaconing; Mrs. Gladys Warnick, Grantsville.

Also surviving are two sons, Marshall Fazenbaker of Lonaconing; Clarence W. Fazenbaker of Westernport; 15 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Trooper Bruce Diehl assisted Officer Kirkwood in investigating the case. The body will be at Eichhorn's Funeral Home this evening.

Forestry Camp Advisory Board To Meet Today

Session Planned At Fort Cumberland

The Advisory Board for Maryland Boys' Forestry Camps will have its bi-monthly meeting at 12:15 p.m. today at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Oakland is chairman of this eight-member board. Other members are Earle L. Bracey, Frank Powers, J. William Hunt, Mrs. Ralph Isiminger, Raymond J. Miller and Juvenile Court Magistrate Louis A. Fatkin, all of Allegany County, and Robert W. Stemple, welfare director in Garrett County.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, state welfare director, and R. Thomas Thayer Jr., district forester, are expected to meet with the board.

The State Welfare Department has charge of the three camps located west of Lonaconing in Garrett County, at Meadow Mountain, also in Garrett County, and at Green Ridge.

About 25 delinquent boys are kept in each of the three camps in these two Western Maryland counties. The camps are operated by the Welfare Department but supervision of the boys while working in the forests is the responsibility of the State Department of Forests and Parks.

One of the problems is to obtain a new director for the Garrett County camp on Meadow Mountain.

J. D. Eisenberger, Cumberland representative of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company and a member of the P. T. Seibert Agency, has won a national sales honor, it has just been announced by Henry W. Persons, vice president and director of agencies. League To Meet In Cumberland

The 14th annual convention of The Maryland Municipal League will be held in Cumberland next year according to a vote taken by League members during this year's annual convention the other day in Rockville.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech was re-elected a vice president of the League at the Rockville convention. Mayor George M. Miller of Takoma Park was elected president for the coming year.

The League urged the General Assembly to take action to implement Constitutional Amendment 5, to allow cities and towns to engage in urban renewal, overwhelmingly approved by the voters on November 8.

More than 225 municipal officials across the state were present for this year's convention to discuss such topics as annexation, recreation and water pollution control.

Eugene Mason, city recreation director, was one of the speakers who stressed the importance of adequate local recreation programs for people with "increased amounts of leisure time."

Other speakers on the topic were Mayor Alan Kistler of Greenbelt and Lorne Richert, Wicomico County supervisor of recreation.

Washington Co. Wants Circuit's New Judgeship

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The Washington County delegation to the General Assembly will request that a fourth judge for the 4th Judicial Circuit be appointed to the county.

The additional judge was authorized in a statewide referendum Nov. 8.

Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties, which comprise the circuit, each has a single judge.

Del. J. Herbert McElwee, D-Washington, chairman of the delegation, said Wednesday there was no question but what the county should get the judgeship. He cited statistics for the year ending Sept. 30 showing that Washington County's Judge D. K. McLaughlin handled 915 actions.

This was 38 per cent more than the 568 cases handled by Allegany County's Judge Morgan C. Harris, McElwee said. And he said it was 68 per cent more than handled by Garrett County's Judge Neil Fraley.

L. H. Buchanan Heads LaVale Zoning Board

Lloyd H. Buchanan of Cash Valley Road, this week was named chairman of the LaVale Zoning Board which held an organizational meeting in that community.

The two other members of the board are Lee C. Barnett Jr. and Douglas Smith.

Mr. Buchanan was unopposed for a position on the board left vacant when C. A. Lancaster, Cumberland newspaperman, decided not to seek re-election.

Mr. Lancaster, who had been chairman of the unit, was unable to attend the meeting but advised the members that an audit of the funds is being prepared and will be presented as soon as it is available.

The board discussed violations of the zoning ordinance, particularly with respect to those involving permits for new and remodeling construction, and sign violations.

Mr. Buchanan pointed out that the unit discussed the need for prompt issuance of building permits where no conflict with the zoning ordinance exists.

He said the unit will proceed promptly with such action that is necessary to get complete compliance with the ordinance for residents of LaVale.

Murder Trial Ends With Hung Jury

Next Move In Case Uncertain

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Criminal Court jury was discharged late Wednesday after announcing it was deadlocked over a verdict in the murder trial of Charles Davis.

Davis, a 23-year-old Baltimore Negro, was charged in the fatal beating of Franklin Creamer, 49, an unemployed trucker and father of five children.

Newsmen said they learned the jury of nine men and three women stood 11 to 1 for conviction on the first-degree murder charge pressed by the State. Judge Joseph Byrnes discharged the jurors after they said further attempts to reach a unanimous decision would be futile.

The next step in the case was not immediately determined. Attorneys said the State could ask for a re-trial or accept a plea to a lesser charge than first-degree murder.

Before the case went to the jury, Davis took the stand in his own defense. He said he and a companion had struck Creamer on the night of Aug. 14 because he had insulted them. He claimed the robbery was merely an afterthought.

Davis and James P. Ewell, 18, Negro, were jointly indicted for the slaying of Creamer and also were charged with robbing him of $21 and a wrist watch.

Davis elected to go on trial before a jury, but Ewell chose a non-jury trial. Both pleaded innocent.

Creamer and two of his children had been living with his sister in Baltimore after he lost his job as a trucker last May. The victim's wife and other three children live with her parents in Cumberland.

Davis testified Creamer came staggering across the Frederick Avenue Bridge and ordered the two Negroes out of his way, using bad names.

Davis said he hit the white man with his fist and that Creamer fell back, hitting his head on the bridge railing. Then, Davis said, he and Ewell went through Creamer's pockets.

Asst. State's Atty. E. Thomas Maxwell Jr., in his opening statement to the jury, contended that the two had beaten Creamer with a toy pistol.

Evidence produced at the trial showed that Creamer died of a fractured skull and that he had suffered fractures of the nose and jaw.

Judge Joseph R. Byrnes presided at the trial.

Pa. Fugitive Recaptured By State Police

Four Escapees Still At Large

One of five inmates who escaped this week from the State Correctional Institution, Huntingdon, Pa. was recaptured about noon yesterday by authorities of that state.

Donald Davidson, 23, of Baden, Beaver County, was apprehended as he crossed Dinner Bell Road about 14 miles east of Uniontown. The fugitive had nothing to say when officers questioned him about the whereabouts of his companions.

Davidson was wearing clothes reported stolen Tuesday night from a country store operated by Howard Glisan in Markleysburg. He and two others were seen by Glisan who had gone across the street to a restaurant.

Still at large are Scotty Robinette, 32, RD 2, Everett; Raymond Wade, 36, Washington, Pa.; Norman Keeler, 25, Houston, Pa.; and Robert Harn, 32, of Millsboro, Pa.

Maryland State Police, operating from the LaVale barracks, had a roadblock set up at the Pennsylvania state line Tuesday night.

Maryland Police today said that two of the fugitives are presumed to be in a car stolen in Uniontown Tuesday. They indicated that the men were probably traveling toward Maryland in the stolen vehicle.

All five escapees were spotted in Markleysburg, a rural community about 18 miles east of Uniontown, Tuesday night. Three of them were spotted robbing a general store there. The other two were in a restaurant across the street from the store.

The storeowner told police that the men had washed, shaved and were wearing clothing stolen from his store. Their prison garb was left behind. Meanwhile, a waitress told police that two unshaven strangers were in the restaurant. They fled in a 1950 automobile parked outside and headed toward Maryland on U.S. Route 40.

At least 20 state troopers from the Uniontown, Washington, Waynesburg and Somerset barracks set up roadblocks. They began to scour the woods yesterday at daybreak.

The fugitives, who were serving time for crimes ranging from armed robbery to forgery, were reportedly carrying knives and were described as "dangerous and desperate."
